Canada Takes Plunge

the tariffs of the major industrialized nations.

They agreed to file their exceptions to this on Sept. 10. Then will arrive the great crunch, determining the actual depth of the ultimate cuts. They will likely be less than the 50 per cent—perhaps much less—envisaged by President Kennedy.

BIG ISSUES UNRESOLVED

Left unresolved by the GATT sessions which ended here Wednesday were the crucial issues—both bearing on the depth of the cuts—of whether European agricultural protectionism will be lowered, and the potential unfairness of equal cuts in unequal American-European tariff levels.

These so-called "blue" cuts are being sought only by the United States, Japan and the two big trade blocs—the European Common Market comprising France, Italy, Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg; and the European Free Trade Association of Britain, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and Switzerland.

SPECIAL STRUCTURE

The communiqué agreed that "Canada falls in the category of countries with a special economic or trade structure such that linear tariff reductions may not provide an adequate balance of advantages."

This means that rather than offering exceptions to a 50-per cent cut on Sept. 10, Canada will put up a package of offers—perhaps across-the-board cuts of tariffs on some groups of imports, or specific trimming on certain products.

In any event, its offer—as of then—will be based on certain assumptions that it will gain concessions in export markets. For example, if the Europeans do not offer to cut their agricultural tariffs—a vital point both for Canada and the U.S.—then Canada subsequently will reduce its own offers.

The Canadian package will be kept secret—only the final result of the bargaining will be made public. Only then will the Canadian manufacturers concerned learn how they have fared in domestic and export markets.

SECURITY TIGHT

The six previous GATT negotiations have seen tight security screens erected. Once the RCMP did the job for Canada.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp told reporters after Wednesday's close of formal talks that he was gratified that Canada's position was clearly recognized.

The position of countries with economies such as Canada's was noted in the ministerial round here a year ago. But this time Canada was named.

Listed separately in this category—but specifying their reliance on agricultural and other primary products for export earnings—were Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. It was not clear whether they, too, will be required to table their initial offers on Sept. 10.

Sharp said he expressed disappointment in the ministerial sessions Wednesday over the lack of progress in settling the agricultural issue.

Russians Rejected Nazi Peace Bids

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia rejected two separate German peace bids a week before the war with Nazi Germany ended in 1945, according to a Soviet Army marshal's memoirs.

Marshal Vasily Chuikov, who took part in the victorious Russian assault on Berlin, said Dr. Josef Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister, sent a peace emissary to see him on the night of April 30, 1945.

The German negotiator, General Krebs, brought the Russians news that Hitler had committed suicide that afternoon. Chuikov, now a Russian

Research Possible

MPs Will Study Smoke-Cancer Tie

OTTAWA (UPI)—A parliamentary committee is going to look at Canada's billion-dollar, cancer-scarred tobacco industry—a look that could result in government-sponsored research into the connection between smoking and cancer.

The government, in an infrequent move, Wednesday amended a Liberal back-bencher's resolution urging such research, to enable it to go to the common standing committee on agriculture for study.

Jack Roxburgh, member for the Ontario tobacco-growing constituency of Norfolk, suggested the government turn back some of the billions of dollars it has collected in taxes from the tobacco industry into research. He won support from all sides of the Commons.

Airfield Hales (PC—Wellington South) said Roxburgh showed a "great amount of courage" in asking his government to "foster and promote" the industry when Health Minister Judy LaMarsh was spending $400,000 on publicity aimed at stopping people from smoking.

AIMED AT STUDENTS

The LaMarsh program is aimed primarily at school children.

As the private members' hour drew to a close—and it appeared Roxburgh's motion would be lost—Solicitor General J. Watson MacNaught rose and suggested the amendment. It was seconded by Mines Minister Benidickson.

MORE RESEARCH

It eliminated Roxburgh's suggestion that the government provide a larger grant for research and experimental work, but it called on the committee to study the research and experimental facilities of the industry and recommend measures to promote and assist it.

The wording would allow the committee to recommend increased research into the causes of lung cancer and government financial support for this research.

The sparsely-filled Commons agreed unanimously to the amendment.

TB Easy to Catch as Ever —And Just as Dangerous

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is tuberculosis as easy to catch and as dangerous as when it was first discovered?

I know that certain precautions have to be taken with patients, but must they be isolated?

Is it true that the germs live three years after leaving the body? No, I am not a TB patient.—F.J.C.

Tuberculosis patients are restricted only to the degree necessary for safety. They need to be in hospitals. They cannot be left at home, because (while the disease is active) they may spray dangerous and often deadly germs with every cough and sneeze.

BEAT AWAY

It's best to keep them away from other people for the time being. They can have visitors, but are taught the necessity for covering the mouth and nose with tissue at each cough or sneeze, and how to keep at a safe distance from others.

Yes, tuberculosis is as easy to catch as it ever was, and as dangerous—unless it is treated.

With drug treatment, and sometimes surgery, most patients (if they find out about their disease in time) become "negative." They no longer are walking germ-sprays, and then can continue treatment at home.

GERMS DIE

No, it's not true that TB germs survive for three years. The germs die quite soon after leaving the body.

TB is spread, not by germs that somebody produced last week or last month, but by fresh, deadly ones being coughed or sneezed or otherwise distributed by (a) patients who don't care about other people; or (b) people who don't know that they have, and are spreading TB.

That's why I will continue to remind readers to be suspicious of a chronic cough, unexplained temperature or loss of weight, and to be checked periodically for their own protection and the safety of others.

TB spreads in just one way—person to person.

Dear Dr. Molner: A few years ago I injured the nail on my big toe. It became black and loose so I thought it would come off but it didn't. It is still black and bothers only at the root.

Is there anything I can do to loosen the nail so that it will come off?—Mrs. S.E.W.

This is not a do-it-yourself job. It will be painful without an anesthetic, and suitable precautions against infection are mandatory. So have an orthopedic surgeon or a podiatrist do it for you.

"MUCH DISTURBED": Doctors can't say it is impossible to restore the Fallopian tubes after they have been tied. It has been accomplished, but it is difficult and there is no guarantee of success.

What Scotch Is to Scots Bra Is to Americans

LONDON (AP)—After one of its most delicate investigations, a British research organization Wednesday concluded that American strapless bras are best.

Fashion expert Felicity Green commented: "This is no coincidence, for the bra is to America what Scotch is to Scotland."

trial commissioner, recommended a wage increase totaling 19 cents an hour on a two-year contract.

Both sides, however, said they want time to consider the suggestion. The proposal calls for an increase of seven cents effective Jan. 1, with an additional three cents July 1.

The second year would provide an increase of five cents Jan. 1 and four cents July 1.

RENTED TRAILERS

Students, working in pairs, have been using their own cars and rented trailers to haul garbage to the dump. Some have been making five trips daily at $15 a load.

Some said in interviews they have seen unemployed and retired men also "blacklegging" the garbage.

50 CENTS A CAN

They charge residents and businesses 50 cents a can.

To take the garbage to the dump the student and other collectors must pass a picket line. One picket complained that garbage dumped near the approaches to the dump by persons not wanting to cross the picket line is beginning to smell and attract flies.

One student, a physician's son, said he will continue to pick up garbage despite the union's protest.

"Do they want rats all over the city? Unless someone picks up the garbage there will be epidemics all over the place. And we get some loose change in the bargain."

Meanwhile, it was reported that the city refused a suggestion that it re-open direct talks with the union.

MEDIATORS OFFER

Dr. Neil Perry, vice-president of the University of B.C. who has been acting as a government inquirer into the dispute, is reported to have offered to act as mediator and chairman of the meeting if the two sides would return to the bargaining table.

The union is said to have

Advances in Senate

12-Mile Limit Bill Clears First Hurdle

OTTAWA (CP)—Government legislation to extend Canada's fishing limit to 12 miles from a coastal baseline cleared its first big hurdle in the Senate Wednesday.

The contentious bill received second reading—approval in principle—only after members of the Conservative opposition kept up their stiff criticism for the third sitting day and forced a rare recorded vote.

The bill now goes to the Senate banking and commerce committee, which will hear testimony by government officials, leaders of the fishing industry and other interested parties.

ONE OPPOSED

Only Senator Wallace McCutcheon, Toronto Conservative and former trade minister, voted against the bill itself.

The Conservatives forced the Senate's first roll-call vote of the 1964 session on a government motion to refer the bill to the commerce committee. The last such vote took place last Dec. 4 on an income tax bill.

BID DEFEATED

Senator McCutcheon moved an amendment to send the bill to the external affairs committee instead, but his bid was defeated 40 to 31. The vote was along party lines except for Senator Hartland Molson (Ind.-Quebec) who sided with the Conservatives.

Senator McCutcheon said the measure does nothing to assist Canadian fishermen and threatens to "upset our friends in Washington."

Fish Talks Move On

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister Robichaud said in the Commons Wednesday the first phase of negotiations with most countries over Canada's proposal to implement a 12-mile fishing limit is completed, and the next step is to complete these negotiations in more detail.

Senator McCutcheon moved an amendment to send the bill to the external affairs committee instead, but his bid was defeated 40 to 31. The vote was along party lines except for Senator Hartland Molson (Ind.-Quebec) who sided with the Conservatives.

Bicultural Sessions Secret

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canadian servicemen will be permitted to make their views on biculturalism known—but only behind closed doors. Associate Defense Minister Lucien Cardin said yesterday.

Cardin explained that the Queen's regulations prevent members of the armed forces, not only from discussing military matters, but also controversial subjects involving public policy. He said in view of the importance of the work being conducted by the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, "the commission has agreed to receive evidence from any member of the armed forces in camera."

Violence Explodes All Across Cyprus

NICOSIA (UPI)—New violence exploded across Cyprus Wednesday, leaving at least one dead and forcing the United Nations into an all-out drive to try to restore peace to this troubled Mediterranean island.

Greek and Turkish Cypriots were building new defences and gun positions from Nicosia to the eastern port of Famagusta where a Turkish Cypriot police.

Intermittent firing also ripped across the Kyrenia mountains.

Canadian sources said Maj. Patrick Tremblay, who heads the Canadian forces stationed in the Kyrenia Pass, was "severely reprimanded" by the UN command after withdrawing his troops from the Turkish Cypriot villages of Tembos and Kazaphani when the Turkish Cypriots refused to remove new gun positions set up near the UN headquarters in the pass.

Tremblay claimed the gun position endangered his headquarters, but the UN high command countermanded his order and the troops returned to the villages after only a half hour's absence, the sources said.

Farmers Loaded with Cash On Machine-Buying Spree

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan farmers, with cash from last year's record wheat crop bulging in their wallets, are on a farm machinery buying spree. Machinery dealers say rains sales in the same period in 1963.

They said farmers were buying more machines for cash, driving tougher bargains and asking for bigger and better equipment. Sales were up on new and used machines and replacement parts.

A Little Clearer

PREMIER BENNETT has branded as politics and "not co-operative federalism" the Ottawa government's requirement as expressed by Resources Minister Iain, that, as a condition for federal assistance, British Columbia must declare compensation of tidal-wave victims to be beyond its provincial capability. Taking the words at their face value, the premier would seem to be right.

But what is meant in the Pearson ministry, where the catch-phrase is receiving such currency, by co-operative federalism? Justice Minister Guy Favreau, federal Liberal Party leader for Quebec, this week made that a little clearer.

In a speech to the Canadian Club of Montreal, he shunned trying to define in an exhaustive and peremptory manner "this new state, this new way of behaving of the country and the provinces." To do so, he said, would be conceited. But he endeavored "to find an explanation rather than a definition."

This Mr. Favreau did in a way that showed a concept of "two levels of sovereign governments"—Ottawa and the provinces—in regular and even permanent consultation over the problems of overlapping and mingling responsibilities, to avoid on the one hand the "dangerous tendency" to centralization and on the other "the sterile and negative assertion of provincial rights."

"I am convinced," he said, "that, by institutionalizing the pattern of our relations and of timely consultations between the federal and provincial governments, by basing our decisions on the objective and thorough study of our common problems rather than on political expediency, by developing means of actions which will at one and the same time respect the rights and jurisdiction of the provinces and make it possible to permit the economic, social and cultural advancement of our people in a broad Canadian sense; that we will succeed in moulding a true and viable kind of co-operative federalism."

To this end, the minister noted that provincial governments had been urged to set up their own federal-provincial liaison units; he hoped the time would soon come when the central secretariat, grouping the representatives of the provinces and Ottawa, would be established on a permanent basis.

In other words, Mr. Favreau apparently looks forward to the establishment of a sort of diplomacy between the federal government and the provinces, with frequent and regular meetings of heads of state, whereby harmony can be achieved between provincial and national policies and ambitions.

One must wonder however if the Ottawa government is not being overly hopeful in suggesting that such an apparatus would remove political expediency from the federal-provincial scene; for that matter, whether "co-operative federalism" of this nature—or would it turn out to be "co-operative provincialism"?—would truly prove in the interests of national strength and unity, or would tend to lead rather, under cover of diplomatic consultation and concession, to the weakening of the federation's fabric.

Navy Day

TWO destroyers of the Pacific Command came home this week after a four-month exercise cruise in the Far East, during which the ships carried out manoeuvres in company with other Commonwealth naval components. The escort commander reported a successful trip and said he thought "we held our end up."

We are sure they did, the RCN carries its flag well, and come this Saturday the navy will once again hold its end up.

This is "Navy Day," the annual open house when the Esquimalt station shows off its wares and its quality to the folks among whom it has its being. The far-ranging Fraser and Mackenzie reached their home port in nicely calculated time.

The navy program for Saturday is such as to provide an interesting variety of display on land, sea—in the form of ship boarding itself—and in the air. All the elements that embrace naval deployment are included.

At the Patricia Bay air station naval flyers will demonstrate their aerial skills; at the Dockyard DEs and frigates, plus the pleasing participation of two U.S. destroyers, will welcome the public; training techniques and equipment will be on view at Naden; and the Malahat reserve division will show an appropriate "Citizen Sailors" film.

It is a wide program that has been fashioned for the interest of the navy's civilian contemporaries. Fireworks, diving displays, fire-fighting, trips in the RCN's harbor craft, exhibits of various nature—these and other features will highlight the 1964 version of this annual occasion. The whole promises an attractive day for the land-based citizens of this area.

Once again, as we can look forward to with assurance, the RCN will hold its end up, for the benefit of the populace which regards it with esteem.

Mind Over Matter

IT is exactly ten years since an Oxford student broke the four-minute-mile barrier and in so doing released runners from a mental inhibition. What is done can be done again.

In fact this once seemingly impossible goal has been reached no fewer than 142 times since Roger Bannister electrified the athletic world, illustrating well the power of example.

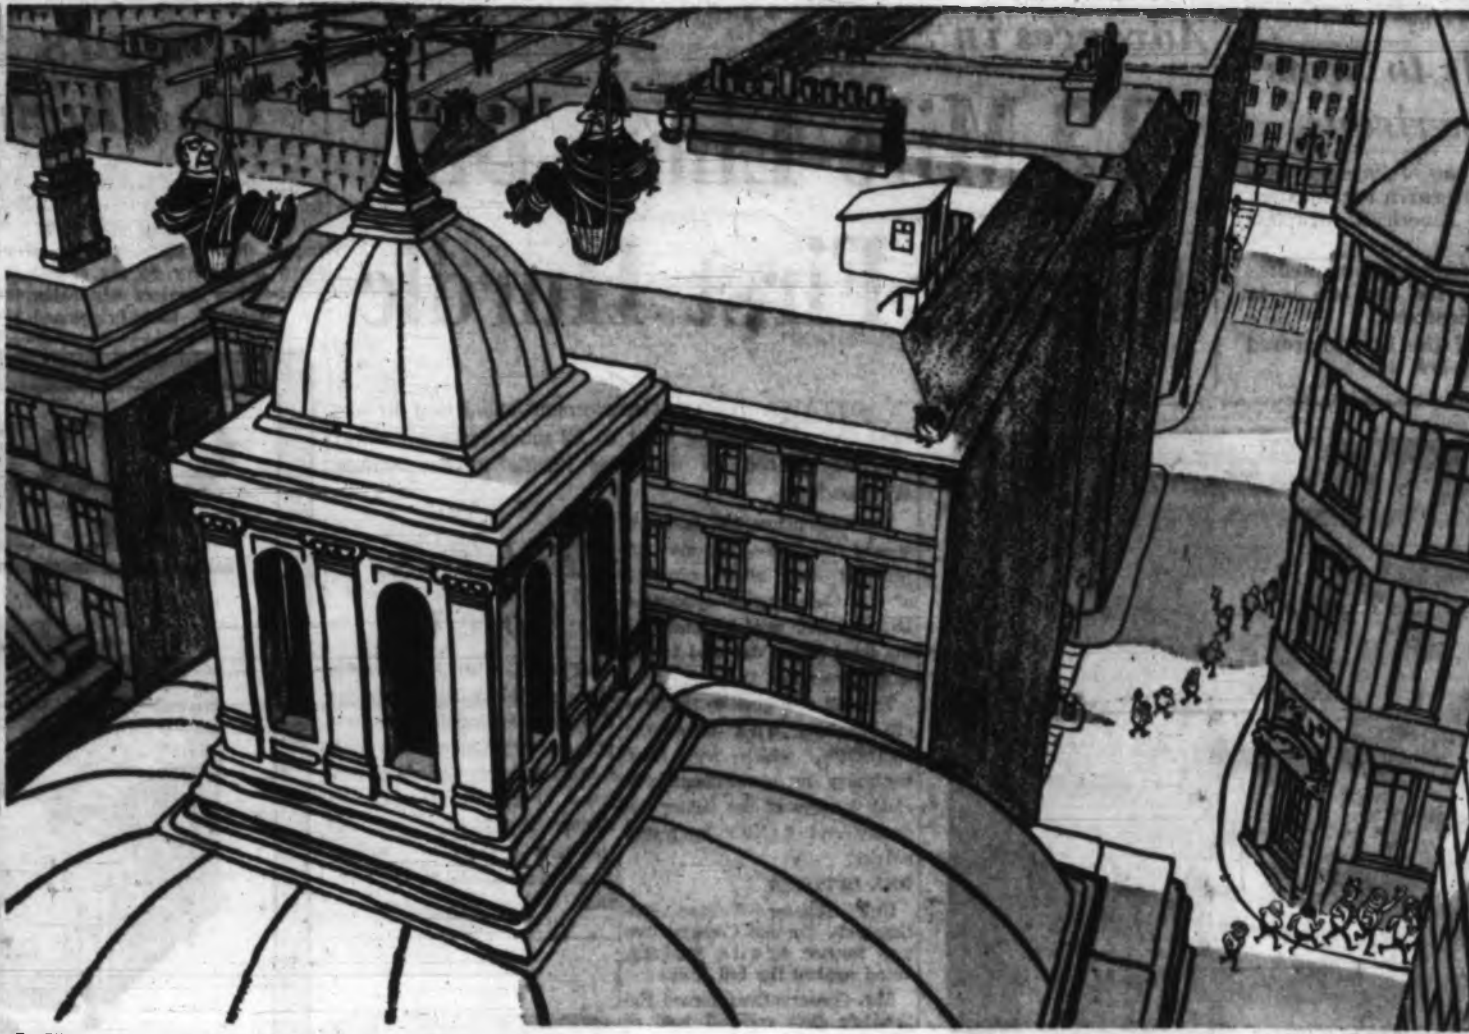

Actually Bannister was not the natural runner with inherent flair for great speed but as a prospective consultant neurologist, which he now is, he studied body stresses and brought psychology to play in his record-breaking mile effort. He geared his mind to force his body, duplicating this effort in his famous duel with John Landy at the Empire Games in Vancouver later the same year.

The power of the mind is incalculable and as has been demonstrated in many ways it can accomplish wonders. The psychological factor is all-important. Speaking on the anniversary of the first sub-four-minute mile Dr. Bannister foresees the time record for this distance being reduced almost without limit, the ultimate depending only, as he put it, on an athlete's ability to incur oxygen debt.

Another runner of note, also a sub-four-minute miler, thinks it will be many years before anyone runs a mile in 3.45 minutes, the figure envisaged by Dr. Bannister, but he is reflecting the normal athletic reaction. The former Oxford student will have in mind the mental attitude to the task.

The conquest of Mount Everest was another example of released inhibitions. Once the earth's summit peak had been reached others followed to equal this mountaineering feat, also for long thought to be impossible.

It is mind over matter that counts greatly in many realms of man's activity.

"Jolly good idea of the Chief's to invite our two rival gangs for a friendly chat at the Town Hall."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and shunting men ...

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE are few genuine shrinking violets in the human race. It is as natural as that the sun will shine, even if it takes a few days off now and then, that individuals should like to be noticed.

To be overlooked, ignored as of no account, passed by when the credits are being distributed, is an affront to one's ego. Everyone likes to bank in the eyes of others, once in a while at least.

True enough I have a few readers who in writing me genuinely seek to avoid publicity—they prefer to have their names withheld—but otherwise, I must presume, they don't want to go through life entirely unnoticed and unnoted.

And even the least of us has his day in the sun, some time and in some way.

These are ordinary folks I am talking about, not those destined for notice by virtue of accomplishment or of ballyhoo that makes them seem important. The entertainment message, for example.

And, getting down now to the Beatles.

Two of them, you may have read in the Colonist, en route to stir up more youthful hysteria, this time in Australia, took a dim view of the news-men and cameras who approached them in Hawaii.

"Why don't you leave us alone," shouted one. For my preference they could be left alone for good, period, but that is by the way. And, frankly, they wouldn't like it a bit if the world took them at their word.

Now it must be rather trying, I'll admit, to bathe in perpetual limelight, but in their instance it's rather like biting the hand that feeds them.

The Beatles haven't won their notoriety because of their musical offerings, far from it. Their fame and fortune—and the latter grows astronomically—derives from the public attention focused on them. Their pop records themselves, if left in the limelight, if left in the printed ratings and publicity theorems that have sent these to the top of the hit parade.

And the Beatles' antics before the microphones would mean nothing if indeed they were left alone.

They cannot have their cake and eat it; and in their case the loss of privacy is the penalty they must pay for the fame—a much abused term—that is theirs.

Only if they shaved their heads—wearing wigs for their public performances—and eschewed the garb designed to advertise their identity, could they hope to travel incognito.

And can you imagine anyone in show business not wanting to be noticed? Of course you can't. Publicity is meat and drink to them, as well as to their bank books.

The Beatles will have to learn to respond as well as receive; and think of the swooning girls they'll deprive of fainting if newsmen give them the go-by.

I'd be surprised if they didn't really subscribe to the philosophy of the movie star who said the time to be annoyed was when she was ignored.

A Washington View

Headache for the Democrats

By DAVID MACLAREN

PRESIDENT Johnson, who until recently was laboring hard to have Congress pass a civil rights bill on behalf of negroes this session, found it difficult to make himself heard over a noisy pro-negro demonstration when he opened the New York Fair a few weeks ago. And, although the threatened "stall-in" by negroes did not block traffic to the fair that day, there were subway demonstrations resulting in bloody heads and numerous arrests. These and other spring-time incidents make the White House wonder what negro riots there may be this summer and how the white voters will react this autumn.

There is no question but that the negro civil rights movement is becoming increasingly militant. Familiar leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and of other established and respectable negro organizations, are being replaced by less patient and more violent proponents of full equality now. And these organizations are themselves losing influence to the Black Muslims and other groups that openly advocate a stronger measure against the dominant white majority.

Why such militancy in 1964, after so many years of resignation to injustices? First, both President Kennedy and his brother the attorney-general approved, and urged negro leaders to strong action. Second, most negroes no longer live in the Old South, but in the North and West, where on the whole they are better paid, informed, and educated. Third, many negroes and sympathizers believe that the present bill in Congress is more likely to pass if there are publicized racial incidents in major cities throughout the nation.

Most politicians doubt however that Congress can be blackmailed in this manner. An increasing number of white voters, who ordinarily don't care about negro rights one way or another, are becoming irritated or even alarmed at what sometimes appear to be excessive demands. More over there is increasing evidence that Communist agents and fellow travellers are among the organizers of recent demonstrations and that they plan to create further trouble this summer.

Another feature of the demonstrations and riots expected this summer is that in the South many of the leaders and participants will be from the North. A few of these will be white clergymen. But many will be militantly liberal white college students from the Northeast, having some excitement during the summer vacation, and determined to end Southern-style segregation.

The irony of all this is that a different but almost equally cruel segregation exists in the North and West. Outside the South, white and black mingle in stores, cafeterias and buses, for example; but segregation of houses, which results in negroes going to one school and whites mostly to another, is widespread. In the South, especially in rural areas, white and black are more likely to live as neighbors on the same road; but traditionally they keep apart in hotels and eating places. Wealthy Bostonians who lead riot demonstrations in Alabama would probably be horrified if they could no longer live in an exclusive white neighborhood at home.

The Civil Rights Bill before Congress directly attacks the kind of segregation that has most often been practised in the South. But indirectly and eventually, an enforcement of full civil rights is extended, more and more white voters in the North and West will find that it is not only Southerners who must change their way of life. And, assuming Congress legislates and the U.S. government enforces, many millions of small businessmen and their customers will find themselves unexpectedly subject to federal police power.

An increasing number of Democratic national committee-men are beginning to wonder what will happen as more voters discover what negro civil rights mean for them. At the moment only a few in a hundred Americans really understand what Congress is being asked to enact in the name of liberalism. However, by the congressional elections of 1964, many more may understand and vote Republican.

This so-called white "backlash" is understandable and evident already.

Because negroes are now distributed more widely and less unequally throughout the nation than ever before, due to massive migration and their high birth rates in northern and western towns, they are increasingly in competition with low-income whites. This conflict is mostly over jobs, but as consumers there is also rivalry when it comes to buy a second hand car or renting a house. Many urban poor whites also have a sense of minority grievance, whether as Puerto Ricans in New York, Irish in Boston, or Italians in Chicago, and as political minorities they know all about bloc voting too.

This is the significance of Governor Wallace's unprecedented protest invasion of the Midwest from his home state of Alabama. He won a substantial fraction of the Democratic primary vote for president in Wisconsin—267,000 votes in fact—although he is obviously not a candidate really. And he is expected to do as well in Indiana.

Close analysis of the Wisconsin vote proves that Wallace was most successful in districts where low-income whites feel threatened economically and culturally by neighboring negro districts. How much better might he have done if these primaries had been after this summer?

It is only in the abstract that the majority of white voters favor equality, liberty and humanity among the races, and so long always as these principles are applied elsewhere. But the militant negro minority obviously wants these reforms now and where they live. And they are looking to President Johnson, as the political heir of the late president, to match his words with deeds.

This places the administration in a most uncomfortable dilemma. It is one thing to win negro urban votes if this does not lose white votes, and President Roosevelt was the first Democrat to show how this feat could be achieved. But it is quite another to promote legislation and policies that increase the urban negro vote for northern Democrats from say 90 to 95 per cent if this reduces the supporting vote of organized white minorities from say 80 per cent to 20 per cent.

The Democrats in the North and West face an ever more terrifying prospect—if there is racial violence during the long hot summer—and that is a tendency to bloc voting by whites. White voters outnumber negro voters by 11 to 1 in New York, 12 to 1 in California, and 9 to 1 in Illinois. The ratios of white to negro voters are equally lopsided in Pennsylvania, Michigan and other states having the most electoral votes for president.

Obviously, no one expects white bloc voting to the extent of negro bloc voting in the past, but that is not the real danger that President Johnson faces. The practical threat is that one in 10 whites who ordinarily vote Democratic, will in the states outside the South, vote Republican in November. That would be enough to completely offset the negro vote that the Democrats have always counted upon in the North and West.

The other real danger from President Johnson is that some of the "backlash" might be turned into the Republican column this November because of the negro civil rights issue. Every now and again a party and its leader are "damned if they do, and damned if they don't." This is the position in which the president, the Democratic party leaders, and a majority of Congressmen from big-city states now find themselves, thanks to the impassioned civil rights issue. Their every utterance and act, repeated and recorded by press and television, is losing them either negro or white votes back home.

If there is one thing that congressmen don't like, it is to be held against the political heat, and the civil rights issue is very hot indeed. So everyone expects an exceptionally warm summer in Washington this year. And, if a Senate filibuster results in serious racial violence, the heat will become unbearable for some politicians.

CENTO'S Tenth Year

By ELIZABETH BARKER
—from London

THE Central Treaty Organization, now entering its tenth year, is perhaps the least widely known of the three defence groupings which are the safeguards of the non-Communist world—NATO in the West, the South-East Asia Treaty Organization, and CENTO in the East. In Asia, though the problems are different, SEATO is discouraging Communist China from aggression; in consequence, the Chinese have no stomach to press things too far, preferring subversion and the encouragement of armed insurrection.

CENTO's special task, in its area, Mr. Butler went on, is to counter Communism in its more oblique forms; those of subversion and infiltration.

From the start the CENTO countries have seen this problem not merely in terms of defensive action and counter-subversion; they have tackled it in a positive and constructive spirit. They have had two firm aims: to bring the member countries much closer together in as many fields of activity as possible; and to make a joint concerted effort to improve economic and social conditions in the territories of the regional members.

As the American secretary of state, Mr. Rusk, told the CENTO ministerial meeting, the alliance can feel pride in its achievement in defence and in the economic field. It has created a shield, and it is preserving the stability of the area.

In the defence field, it is a measure of CENTO's success that the threat of aggression, whether open or concealed, whether in the form of military action or of subversion, has shrunk to much smaller proportions. Mr. Butler said in Washington: "It appears evident that the deterrent power of the alliance has in fact deterred."

All three defence groupings, Mr. Butler pointed out, aim at also help individual members to tackle problems with greater insight and surer judgment; and this serves peace in the region and in the world.

CENTO is also doing much to improve communications in the strictly practical sense. Soon there will be a microwave telecommunications telephone line stretching right across Turkey, Iran and Pakistan, and linking Ankara with Karachi. There are to be high-frequency radio links between London and Ankara, Teheran and Karachi. The construction of a railway link between Turkey and Iran—including a train ferry over Lake Van in a remote part of Eastern Turkey—is going ahead with American financial aid. This will link London with Teheran directly by rail. Roads to link Turkey, Iran and Pakistan are being built.

In addition, there is steadily growing co-operation in the fields of technical knowledge, agriculture, health and science. There is a CENTO Multilateral Technical Co-operation Fund which provides courses of instruction for Turkish, Persian and Pakistani students on an increasing scale. Britain—which contributes $3 million a year as economic aid—provides for the training of CENTO students in England. A CENTO post-graduate medical centre is to be established in Karachi.

In all these ways, the members of the alliance are working together for the economic, social and cultural development of the CENTO region. In doing this they are, at the same time, making a big contribution to peace and progress in an important area of the world.

Suffering Silently

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE new, cut-short and choked-off daily question period—by far Parliament's liveliest if not finest hour—hasn't been working out quite the way the strategists so optimistically had it figured.

Sure, it saves time. Chopped from the usual 90 to perhaps 45 minutes has been the time the Commons uses, when the House opens each day, for the always entertaining and generally useful cross-examination of the cabinet by the Opposition.

But time is just about all it saves.

It is doing nothing to protect thin-skinned cabinet ministers from the needling barbs of Opposition sharpshooters.

They are still getting appeared. And now, often as not, they can only squirm and suffer in silence.

This opening daily question period, certainly for the visitor or the tourist, is unquestionably the best act in the often amusing, frequently dramatic show—no charge, seats for the taxpayers are free—that Parliament stages five days and three nights a week.

It's just about the only time a taxpayer and the MP who speaks for him in Parliament can actually get AT the government.

For a great many of the more damaging questions fired at the administration by the Opposition are based on information supplied by politically alert and dissatisfied taxpayers back home. They supply the ammunition. The MPs do the shooting.

And there is the cabinet, sitting in a double row, waiting in apprehension of politically explosive questions, loaded with trouble—the ministers praying silently that they will be able to disarm these verbal bombs with quick and convincing answers.

For nearly 10 years it has made for an interesting if scarcely tranquil House of Commons life for the cabinet ministers. Liberal and Conservative alike. And it took up an hour or more of every parliamentary working day, in any session adding up to a total of as many as three weeks of questions and answers.

So perhaps the cry for "reform" was inevitable. And as might be expected, they "reformed" the Commons, with an assist from that old Liberal ally, New Democrat Stanley Knowles, the resident House expert on the rules, by the simple process of partially gagging the Opposition with a procedural crackdown.

Questions must be short, of an urgent nature and of public importance—otherwise they're ruled out of order.

But what Stanley Knowles and the other experts seem to have forgotten is that out of order or not, they are still questions. And, more important, they still get asked.

***

The catch is that a question must be asked before it can be ruled out of order and by then, it's too late—the damage is done.

Before, the cabinet minister under the gun could, if he wished, answer.

Now, if the question's out of order, he can only suffer in silence.

It was an obvious flaw in the program of the "reformers," and it hasn't taken the Opposition's experts in the deft use of the political needle long to discover it.

So that swingingest of all Opposition partisans, Quebec Conservative MP Louis Joseph Pigeon, can pop up and ask Forestry Minister Maurice Sauvé if it's "decent and proper" for his wife, Jan Sauvé, to continue on the CBC payroll when he's one of the cabinet bosses of broadcasting.

***

Ontario Conservative Whip Eric Winkler can ask the prime minister if he's accepting the resignation that Health Minister Judy LaMarsh publicly promised if her Canada Pension Plan was rejected or even altered.

And Saskatchewan Conservative MP Ed Nason can ask the prime minister how much further he thinks he can go in appealing Quebec before the whole country comes apart at its provincial seams.

These and other questions—asked for the sole purpose of working up cabinet tempers and wearing down ministerial resistance—still get asked. But now they don't get answered. The suggestion is made. An idea is planted. A doubt is sown. And these suggestions, these ideas and doubts live and grow in the silence. "Reform" if that's the way Stan Knowles and the government figured it, has boomeranged.

Britain's Troubles in Aden May Be Just Beginning

By PHILIP NEWSON
Since the days of the Romans the port of Aden at the tip of the Arabian peninsula has been a trading link between Asia and Europe. Today, in the hands of the British, it is a strategic military base guaranteeing the flow of oil from the Persian Gulf and the site of an oil refinery capable of processing 5,000,000 tons of oil a year.

It also is a place ardently desired by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic. In recent weeks have occurred events which in British eyes are not mere coincidences. In neighboring Yemen, where for more than a year his troops have been deeply involved, Nasser told cheering tribesmen:

"We swear by God to expel Britain from all parts of the Arab world. We shall shed blood and sacrifice souls."

And in the South Arabian Federation, of which Aden is a part, the tribesmen whom Britain has been battling for a century suddenly were striking with modern arms, mortars and automatic weapons.

The weapons could only come from outside sources, and the British were convinced they came from the United Arab Republic via the Republic of Yemen.

Contributing to rising British anger were reports, later denied, that the decapitated heads of two slain British soldiers had been paraded in the Yemenite capital of Taiz.

As usual in the tangled affairs of the Middle East, the ramifications spread far beyond the desolate volcanic rock and the barren mountains and sand which make up the Aden protectorate and the sultanates, emirates and sheikhdoms composing the South Arabian Federation.

In Yemen, Nasser has tied up close to 40,000 of his armed forces, a third of his military strength. An operation undertaken to protect the new Republic of Yemen after the overthrow of the monarchy and at first expected to be of short duration, has turned out to be a quagmire, costly to the Egyptian economy and unpopular at home.

But with all the effort, Yemeni republican forces and the Egyptians still are able to control only Yemen's cities. Desert tribesmen still rally to the deposed monarchy.

For Nasser the time is approaching when either he has to win in Yemen or get out with resulting damage to his aspirations for Arab unity.

Despite the difficulties involved there are certain advantages for Nasser.

A victory in Yemen will go a long way toward eventual control of the Red Sea and will lead directly into the oil rich sheikhdoms of the South Arabian Federation.

In the British he has a natural target for his favorite themes against colonialism and imperialism, doubly so since the area involved once was held by Yemen and still is claimed by the Yemen government.

In Yemen it was noted that Nasser did not attack Saudi Arabia which has supported the deposed monarchy. New discussions with Saudi Arabia are pending and success there could contribute to success in Yemen.

Britain's troubles in Aden may be just beginning.

BACKGROUND

U.K. Jews Split

By LAWRENCE MALIN, from London

Britain's small but influential Jewish community is split by a theological dispute threatening its future as a cohesive force in British life.

In the eye of the storm lies the question of whether the Bible's first five books of Moses are of divine origin, but at its edges is the conflict between the old and new generations of Britain's 450,000 Jews.

It came to a head April 13 with the appointment of Dr. Louis Jacobs as rabbi of the new West End synagogue, one of London's most important.

Dr. Jacobs is orthodox in ritual, but he feels that the biblical foundation of Jewish ritual — the Torah — must be seen through modern eyes. The Bible, he believes, is a collection of books which grew over the centuries. Part of it is human inspiration, part divine. He has written a book with a word-playing title that sums up his mixture of the mind and the spirit: We Have Reason to Believe.

His appointment by the new West End's board was vetoed by chief Rabbi Isaac Brodie of the United Synagogue, which oversees 80 temples in London.

"An attitude which denies the divine source and unity of the five books of Moses is directly opposed to orthodox Jewish teaching," explained Dr. Brodie, propounding a strongly conservative view.

He asserted that Dr. Jacobs is being used "by a few resolute individuals who have openly declared their intention of trying to bring about a new orientation in our community."

The present dispute brought the leaders of the United Synagogue into urgent conference. Among them were banker Edmond de Rothschild, tycoon Sir Isaac Wolfson and Sir Bernard Waley-Cohen, former lord mayor of London. Many had close ties with the new West End, and they wanted to heal the breach.

But the chief rabbi refused to relent, or Dr. Jacobs to recant. Last week about half the new West End's congregation of 750 left to form its own synagogue, with Dr. Jacobs as rabbi.

ROBERT KENNEDY Writes on Youth

World's Angry Young Men Bound to Prevail in End

By ROBERT KENNEDY

I WOULD like to write briefly about the importance of the current worldwide contest for the hearts and minds of youth, particularly the youth of underdeveloped nations.

This is a subject of unique importance to Canada and the United States together. We approach it from the same tradition of law: the same basis of representative governments and it was of intense personal interest to President Kennedy who became identified with young people through out the world to an extent that many did not realize during his life.

In the unsettled atmosphere of the world today, there is a premium on the qualities of young people. They are more important to themselves, to their nations and to the ideas that they espouse than ever before.

Quite apart from that, however, the young have a special importance today simply because there are so many of them. In numbers alone, they are a substantial majority in the developing nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

challenge. And we may recall his further statement that "men are not made for safe havens."

We of the western tradition are all heirs of revolution. In one way or another — from the Magna Carta through the American Revolution and Canada's Confederation — our people have achieved the changes that were the felt needs of the time.

Canada and the United States are vigorous, young democracies with colorful histories, they are filled with men and ideas far more exciting than the rigid responses of Communist doctrine.

They are tolerant of ideas and diversity, and they are strong enough to admit errors. This type of free expression is contagious. It has a sparkling attraction for young, inquiring minds, an attraction that no Communist system can match.

I emphasize these advantages because I don't think we have made enough of them. Too often in the past we have relied on a negative response to Communism and left the world with the illusion that only Karl Marx had a philosophy.

We have not been as tough, aggressive or articulate as we might have been in the war of ideas.

Beyond that we must acknowledge the temptations of self-satisfaction, indulgence and complacency here at home. Unless we resist these temptations in our own countries we cannot speak with the ringing voice that will be heard by the young struggling for progress throughout the world.

VIEWPOINT

In Pakistan, for example, 60 per cent of the population is under the age of 25. In the Congo, the figure is 54 per cent. In Tanganyika 62 per cent. In India — where the population of 450,000,000 is more than double that of Canada and the United States combined — six out of every 10 people are under the age of 25.

Of course, these figures include children, the very young. But also included are most of the university students in these countries. And students in the world today are a dynamic force with an importance all out of proportion to their numbers.

You will recall the Hungarian uprising of 1956. Students organized and led it.

Students and young workers rioted in Warsaw that summer with less bloodshed and more practical success.

And then came Latin America. Many in my country reacted in shocked disbelief when Vice-President Nixon was jeered and stoned by students in Peru and the roof of his car smashed by students in Venezuela.

Not long after, student riots in Japan forced President Eisenhower to cancel his visit there and Premier Kishi to resign.

Two years later 100,000 youthful rioters swirled through the streets of Seoul. More than 100 persons lost their lives in a single day, but the Korean government of Syngman Rhee was toppled.

These are but a few of the better-known examples of the impact of youth on the world scene. But young people have a special importance today for still another reason: A few of them — particularly in Africa — are leading their nations.

Others are in positions of significant political power. In time, the classroom may be only a few short years away from the presidential palace.

There is Kenneth Kaunda, for example. Kaunda is 39. He has headed the Northern Rhodesia nationalist movement since he was 33. In a few months, when Northern Rhodesia becomes the independent state of Zambia, Kaunda will be its premier. Oskar Kambona, the foreign minister of Tanganyika is 32. Jonas Samkimbil, Angolan exile leader, is 30.

Tom Mboya, minister for justice in Kenya, has been in the front rank of his country's leadership for a number of years. He is still in his 30s as are Justice Bomboko and General Joseph Mobutu of the Congo.

The list could go on and on, and it is not limited to Africa. Rufino Hechomova, minister of finance of the Philippines, is 33. Fidel Castro made himself premier of Cuba at 32, and there are others.

Current history suggests that the leaders of the developing nations throughout the world for the next few decades will come from the young intellectuals, the students, the young labor leaders and politicians of today. These are the ones with whom we should be primarily concerned.

I raise this point because I think it is not self-evident. It is easy to overlook the importance of the young in underdeveloped countries. It is the

Bank Promoters Give Pledge to Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate banking and commerce committee was assured Wednesday by promoters of the new Bank of Western Canada that the bank will never fall under foreign domination.

They made this commitment after Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon (PC — Ontario) said that under the bank's corporate structure effective control of the western institution could be taken away from Canadians. A private bill sponsored by Senator Thomas Leonard (L — Toronto) proposing federal incorporation of the bank was before the committee for a second time.

Detailed study of the measure was postponed for a week to enable senators to give more study to the report of the royal commission on banking and finance and its relation to the proposed new bank. It also was decided to invite the Canadian Bankers' Association to make representations.

Later, the Senate dealt with two other bills seeking to incorporate new banks. The Bank of British Columbia bill was introduced without debate and the Laurentide Bank bill was set for debate next Wednesday.

Senator McCutcheon, former Conservative trade minister, said that three Toronto men, Sinclair Stevens, James Meland and William Bell, would in fact control the new bank which would have its headquarters in Winnipeg. He said the promoters of the bank appeared to be masquerading as westerners.

Senator McCutcheon said the three Toronto men have 51 per cent of the voting control in British International Finance Canada Limited. He said that company holds 43.7 of the bank's proposed capital and is a large shareholder in other trust and loan companies which also held bank shares.

Sale of control over British International Finance and the other companies to foreign interests would mean that effective control of the bank would pass out of Canadian hands.

Senator Leonard said that if this is an issue a section could be written into the bill incorporating the bank to prohibit any form of foreign ownership.

Mr. Stevens said foreign control of the bank "won't happen."

"We are prepared to give an assurance that control will not go out of the country," he told senators.

Former Bank of Canada governor, James E. Obyne, who is expected to be president of the new bank, said it would be possible for foreign interests by buying stock on the market to gain control of existing banks. He hoped that action against this possibility would be taken when the Bank Act is revised in 1965.

Big Plane Increases Carrying Capacity

PARIS (AP)—Plans for the French-British supersonic airliner Concorde have been revised to increase passenger capacity and power. Under the revised plans, the Concorde will have a longer fuselage and greater wing surface, to carry 118 passengers instead of about 100.

Flood Danger Slight No Panic—Williston

Although B.C. is not faced with a serious summer flood threat, as predicted by Federal Resources Minister Arthur Laing Tuesday, there is a possibility of slight flooding in areas of Vancouver Island and North Vancouver, Provincial Water Resources Minister Ray Williston said yesterday.

He said Mr. Laing's remarks—that B.C. would go through "very trying times" in the next few weeks because of runoff from higher-than-average snow in parts of the province—were like "hollering wolf."

NO ALARM

"We are not in any state of alarm," said Mr. Williston yesterday.

Mr. Laing had said some areas of the province were covered with 75 feet of snow and in parts of the Columbia River watershed there was 40 per cent more snow than usual.

AVERAGE RUNOFF

"I don't know what his purpose is in creating alarm," said Mr. Williston. "Reports of provincial hydrologists show that the runoff on B.C.'s main rivers is expected to be average this summer."

He said there was still a heavy snowpack in some areas which conceivably could cause trouble—if a long period of cold weather was followed by a sudden summer heat wave. But flooding would be confined to small streams and would not be serious.

Mather:

Let Judges Decide Ridings

Members of the electoral district redistribution commission should be chosen by judges, not politicians, says NDP member of Parliament Barry Mather.

He told a meeting at the Union Centre, sponsored by the Lower Island committee NDP, that as a result of some "supreme right on their part," Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition leader Diefenbaker would be empowered by pending legislation to appoint the majority of the commission members.

The New Westminster MP said an NDP amendment to make appointments the prerogative of the judiciary would be passed by the Commons "if it gets a vote."

Mr. Mather also criticized Mr. Diefenbaker for "placing personal ambition ahead of party" and NDP member Douglas Fisher for suggesting that the party re-examine its relationship with organized labor.

Royal Roads Plan

Stress on Bilingualism

Speak French, Please!

By DON GAIN

There'll be more French conversation at Royal Roads this fall as part of a government plan to make English-speaking cadets more fluent in the language.

It will work both ways because cadets at College Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean at Saint-Jean, Que., will be given more time to practice their English.

At Royal Roads there will be a special French table at mealtime. At College Militaire Royal French and English will be used on alternate fortnights as the language of the day.

The stepped-up program is designed to help tri-service cadets going on to their third and fourth years at RMC.

In keeping with a statement by Defence Minister Hellyer last week, increased fluency in a second language will be needed starting in the fall of 1965.

The statement said all English-speaking cadets at RMC will be required, during their third year, to pass at least one course given in the French language. French-speaking cadets will be required to pass similar courses in English.

The extension of this emphasis upon bilingualism will ensure all English-speaking cadets will have the opportunity to maintain and improve their proficiency in French by taking at least one course, other than language courses, in which all lectures and examinations will be conducted in French.

Special attention has been given to the teaching of French ever since the founding of RMC in 1876. When the Canadian Services Colleges were established after the Second World War, French was made a compulsory subject for all cadets in the first two years of the four-year university course.

In classrooms and language laboratories at the three military colleges the most up-to-date techniques are being employed.

Magnetic tape-recording equipment in the language laboratory enables an instructor to coach 20 students simultaneously on pronunciation.

The teacher speaks a phrase or a sentence into a microphone. The students hear it through earphones as they sit in rows of separate booths. They repeat it.

Record Level

Food, Clothing Boost Canada's Living Cost

OTTAWA (CP)—Higher prices for food and clothing helped boost Canada's cost of living to a record level at April 1. The consumer price index moved to 135 from 134.6 at March 1.

The bureau of statistics reported today that prices rose during March on a wide range of food items, adult clothing, housing and other components that make up the index.

UP 3 PER CENT

The index—yardstick of urban living costs—is based on 1959 prices equalling 100. At April 1 it was 2.7 points above the index for the corresponding date in 1963—a 12-month gain of two per cent.

Its rise during March followed an increase in industrial wages during February. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at March 1—latest available—was 139.3, compared with 138.1 a month earlier and 133 a year earlier.

FIVE SECTIONS RISE

Five of the seven components in the consumer price index were higher during March—food, housing, clothing, health

They learn the language by speaking it and then hearing themselves speak it.

But practice is still required and this is where the informal sessions come in.

At RMC there is even a separate French dining room where only French is spoken.

Third and fourth-year English-speaking students there spend a three-week period in Quebec City under the supervision of the college's French department.

They live with French families, speak only French and absorb French-Canadian culture by direct contact.

A new departure at Royal Roads this fall will be French conversation classes for staff members and their wives, Dr. Ronald Oldham, associate professor of French said last week.

He expects about 20 to enrol in the weekly two-hour course in the language laboratory.

On the question of bilingualism he advised patience and forbearance.

"Some tend to go off the deep end in demanding quick results," he said. "I don't think you can push another language down the throats of those who do not wish it. What we should do is foster reappraisal. This is one of the most vital ways of establishing it."

"Teaching cadets bilingual skill is an excellent step. It should lead to toleration and understanding."

That would appear to be the way the government looks at it.

"Improved skill in the use of the second language will equip the Canadian armed forces more effectively to meet the demands of their role as a unifying force within Canada," Mr. Hellyer's statement read.

"It will also enable them to carry out their tasks in any international peace force under the United Nations."

Book Not Obscene—Back to Bin

VANCOUVER (CP)—Judge R. A. Sargent ruled in county court yesterday that the book Sexual Perversion and the Law, was not obscene.

The book, seized by city morality squad detectives Sept. 16 last year, was ordered returned to the Fraser Book Bin.

In making his ruling Judge Sargent quoted from a Supreme Court of Canada judgment affecting a Manitoba case.

SHOW CAUSE

The Fraser Book Bin was asked to show cause why the book should not be declared obscene. The company was brought to court under a section of the criminal code which says any book is obscene if its dominant characteristic is undue exploitation of sex.

Judge Sargent had adjourned the Book Bin case pending decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in a

Can't Be Promised

North Ferry Aground
On Completion DateBy TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Plans to launch the Vancouver Island - Prince Rupert ferry service next summer ran on the rocks yesterday and were in danger of sinking.

Shipbuilders told a crestfallen Premier, Bennett they couldn't possibly meet the government's May 7, 1965, deadline for delivery of the Haida Route's first vessel.

Victoria Machinery Depot was low bidder for the ship at $6,019,000. Only other tender came from Yarrows Ltd. and was $6,500,000.

FORCED OUT

Vancouver's Burrard Drydock wrote that a lingering labor dispute and expectations of a new federal government weather-ship contract had forced it to forego bidding.

Both bidders had omitted completion dates—a factor which gives the B.C. Ferry Authority an excuse to call tenders over again.

Possibility that a new call would be made loomed when the premier told assembled shipyard executives and newsmen that he didn't think the authority would accept winter delivery.

NOT IN WINTER

Ferry officials would be reluctant to launch the new service during the slack winter months and wouldn't want to mothball the vessel for several months pending a 1966 inaugural run.

If tenders were recalled allowing a longer construction time, the bids might be lower.

Premier Bennett said he was disappointed and asked the shipyard spokesmen if there wasn't some hope for early-summer delivery.

COULDN'T PROMISE
Yarrows general manager John Wallace said his firm couldn't promise delivery before October, 1965.

VMD president Harold Husband thought there was a chance for July delivery but he ruled out a July 1 deadline.

He didn't think there was any shipyard which could offer earlier delivery.

Spokesmen for both yards indicated that the recent shipbuilding strike was only a minor factor in preventing May 7 delivery.

Slow steel and machinery deliveries were the main reasons.

Mr. Husband said the propeller manufacturers, for example, wanted 10 months for delivery.

Premier Bennett said he was pleased at the bids. They were only slightly above the ferry authority's estimate.

KEY LINE

The Haida Route vessel is a key link in his government's 1,000 passengers and, initially, 120 cars. Car accommodation could later be expanded to 150.

The premier announced the scheme last year. The ferry service is only part of it.

Related projects are completion of the north-island highway to Port Hardy, the Yellowhead highway and the Northern Trans-Provincial highway.

CIRCLE ROUTE

The road and ferry network will create a circle route linking Victoria, Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Kamloops and Vancouver.

The ferry is expected to attract a heavy volume of U.S. travellers between Washington and Alaska.

Plans call for a 325-foot deep-sea vessel capable of carrying 1,000 passengers and, initially, 120 cars. Car accommodation could later be expanded to 150.

Flying clubs throughout Canada will be throwing open their premises to the public and offering free demonstrations, flights and displays during the day.

Victoria's contribution will be the display, which features an early 1930s Fleet Finch biplane on floats and a 1963 Cessna 205 single-engine, six-seater.

All the aircraft are owned by club members. There will be free familiarization flights for visitors plus free refreshments.

The PPCLJ Association will attend a church service at St. Paul's Garrison Church at 11 a.m. Sunday to commemorate the Battle of Frezenberg.

Strike Aid Much More Than $10

Not Cheap, Says Union

Charges that a union had been cheap in its support of striking shipyard workers were denied in Victoria Labor Council last night.

The meeting also discussed whether government subsidies should be given to racehorse breeders and talked about a union settlement with the Hudson's Bay Company.

George Taylor, representing the Greater Victoria School Board Workers' Association, told the council the association had received a letter from a fellow union saying a donation of $10 in support of the shipyard strike was not enough.

He said the letter accused his association of being cheap.

Mr. Taylor said his association had made allowances to provide $10 for each of the seven affiliates involved in the strike, making a total of $70 a month. His association was already contributing $10 a month in support of the Alberta Meat Market strike.

The association has 165 members.

John Nichol of the Retail Workers Association said no union whether on strike or not should refer to another union as "cheap."

An investigation was urged by Charles Peck, who said, "I feel an apology is due to the association."

A resolution to the Canadian Labor Congress calling for an end to provincial government subsidies to racehorse breeders was called for by John Bartholomew of the Machinists' Union.

He was referring to a subsidy to E. P. Taylor, owner of Northern Danow, winner of the Kentucky Derby.

One delegate pointed out raising good horses benefited the country and added it would be bad policy to have union men putting money on poorly-bred horses.

The resolution was passed and the executive agreed to look into the source of the subsidies before forwarding the resolution.

Clerks starting at the Hudson's Bay Company will receive a basic wage of $1.25, said Mr. Nichol. He said that while the store was not a closed shop the union had an agreement that covered every employee.

The union had been asking for $1.25.

In Eastern U.S.

Holdup Suspect Captured

A man who was picked up in the eastern United States and turned over to eastern Canadian authorities Tuesday will be brought back to Saanich to face a charge of armed robbery.

Roland Joseph Dagenais, 32, whose last known address was Vancouver, has been charged with the $7,300 Bank of Montreal holdup April 24.

MORE ARRESTS DUE

Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson said last night he was hoping for other arrests momentarily.

He said U.S. authorities acting on "police information" went to an address and arrested Dagenais. The accused did not put up a struggle, he said.

Chief Pearson did not identify the city in which Dagenais was picked up in the event other suspects might be in the vicinity.

OFFICER IN EAST

He said the man was charged on the strength of a warrant which was sworn out by Saanich police and taken east by Detective George Walton.

Chief Pearson said Detective Walton was expected back within about 24 hours.

Dagenais is the second suspect picked up in connection with the holdup.

Jean Charles Robitaille was arrested in a Victoria hotel three days after the robbery and admitted to his part in the crime. Police recovered $1,500 from his hotel room.

He is to appear in Saanich magistrate's court at 2 p.m. today for probation report and sentence.

SALESMAN BOUGHT

Police also have a warrant out for Clarence William Kraft, a Victoria salesman, in connection with the holdup.

Three men were involved in the bank and a fourth was spotted driving a getaway car which the men used after ditching a U-drive car they used to rush away from the bank.

City council yesterday passed a resolution urging citizens to vote May 23 in favor of the Greater Victoria school board money bylaws.

The vote by aldermen was unanimous.

Ratepayers throughout the school district will vote on a $6,737,354 money bylaw to provide new classrooms and another for $128,000 to purchase the E. B. Paul building on Lansdowne campus for use as an administration centre.

The three-year building program will include 172 new classrooms, six new rooms for the retarded and 39 new kindergarten centres.

Victorians will see the fruits of 100 years of gymnastic experience tonight at the Memorial Arena when two dozen of Denmark's top athletes stage a two-hour exhibition of athletic skill and co-ordination.

Visit of the 12 men and 12 girls is part of a North American tour which will end at the World's Fair in New York in July.

They are all amateurs, members of gymnastic clubs from all over Denmark who compete for the honor of touring with the Danish Gym Team. Their ages range from 18 to 25.

Denmark sets great store by gymnastics as an important part of a young person's education, which not only builds fine bodies but encourages muscle co-ordination.

Students learn gymnastics at school and many continue their training in clubs when they leave school.

These clubs operate individually but are organized under a national group which sets styles and standards.

Every year for the past 10 years, managing director of the tour, Erik Flønsted-Jensen, calls athletes from all over the country to compete, and 12 men and 12 girls are selected for the tour.

Once selected the gymnast takes a year's leave of absence from his studies or work and puts up $500 to finance the trip.

This is returned in pocket money as he requires it through the trip and all expenses are financed through receipts from the shows they stage.

The team travels in a fleet of "erew cars," six-seater, long-wheel-base vehicles with a camper on the back. These also pull trailers.

In these the travelling team cooks, eats and sleeps.

Last night 18 members of the team gave an exhibition at the Veterans' Hospital. The other six staged a clinic at the YM-YWCA.

The Danes have been teaching gymnastics for more than 100 years and they find Canadians interested in their methods and usually able to pick up some new ideas from the clinics.

By the time they complete their tour, thousands of people on this continent will have seen some of the finest gymnastic and folk dancing displays in the world.

Island. Driving horse is his assistant, Frank Neden of Parkville—(Agnes Flett)

Island Tree Farm Busy

Christmas Crop Readied

ERRINGTON — With 235 days still to go until Christmas, work already has started at Kirk's tree farm near here to prepare the 1964 crop of Christmas trees. Ten workmen are employed regularly on the 1,100-acre farm, the largest Christmas tree operation on Vancouver Island, with Clayton Ferrier as supervisor. Quality rather than quantity is the tree farm's motto. The men trim the tops from tall trees to make smaller, bushier, better-shaped Christmas trees. All lower branches are pruned off in an extensive process.

ANOTHER HARVEST

This program for regular growth is expected to mean that tops cut this year will be replaced in time for a new harvest in 1965. Only horses are allowed to yard logs out of the bush as bulldozers could harm the delicate trees. In addition, the horses are used to load the logs onto trucks. Stewart Fawdry of Parkville has the contract to log the tree farm. He sells short logs and cut-down trees to the Harman pulp mill.

Wally Watson, district manager at the Kamloops Christmas tree farm, who is presently in Errington, says the people of B.C. are not making use of the full potential in this multi-million-dollar industry.

They could if they would only work at it, he said. Last year, 42,000 trees were shipped from Errington, four carloads in all—three of pruned trees and one carload of unpruned trees.

Two Men Die Two Survive In Island Crash

CAMPBELL RIVER — Four men escaped from a panel truck which plunged from a 15-foot rock bluff early Wednesday, but two of them drowned trying to reach shore.

Police said the victims were Donald Crawford Waden, 47, and Terence McCarthy, 38, both of Courtenay and the survivors were Comox residents Thomas Dunn and Ronald Miller.

The four were employed at the Mac-Powell logging operation near Kelsey Bay and the survivors told police they were returning home after drinking beer and cocktails at Kelsey Bay, 40 miles north of here.

FOR SHORT TIME

Waden's truck went off the pavement, skidded on the gravel shoulder, left the rock bluff, floated for a short time and finally sank in 12 feet of water.

When Dunn and Miller reached shore, they found Waden and McCarthy were not with them. They returned to where the car sank but could not find their companions.

Rescue workers recruited from a nearby logging camp bumblebee found the bodies floating in the water.

Police say one or both victims might not have been able to swim "or they became overcome by the cold water."

An inquest will be held.

Student Shoots Cougars

NANAIMO — A 20-year-old Nanaimo youth who works part time with the provincial fish and game branch shot two female cougars about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday as he was doing a game survey in the Englishman River area of the North West Bay logging operation.

Wayne Trumbley, 785 Short Avenue, a Grade 12 student at Nanaimo Senior Secondary, said he first saw the animals crossing themselves as they crossed a logging road. He said it was a "pretty panicky operation" to get his unloaded rifle from the vehicle he was travelling in and load it before the cougars disappeared.

Wayne shot one animal as it stood on the road and went through the heavy brush to get the other. Each weighed 100 pounds with one measuring six feet six inches and the other six feet five inches.

'No Wanton Cutting in Parks'

PORT ALBERNI — The B.C. government has "no intention of permitting wanton cutting of timber in our parks," Recreation Minister Kiernan has advised Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce.

His letter was in reply to a letter written by Harold Turner for the chamber to determine the recreation department's policy on commercial or industrial operations in parks.

Mr. Kiernan said:

● About 90 per cent of the public use of parks is confined to the 10 per cent which is readily accessible.

● Crown grant mineral claims and timber permits exist in larger parks and must be honored, though they were granted by previous governments.

● Millions of acres are accessible by plane only, which gives special privileges to those who can afford to own or charter planes.

Mr. Kiernan said prohibition of any commercial operations in parks would raise the question of whether the operation of ski lifts or provision of food for sale should be halted.

He emphasized the intention of the department is to look after the interests of all the people of B.C.

'Police' May Steer Island Growth

By TERRY HAMMOND
Municipal Affairs Minister
Dan Campbell said yesterday he hopes to set up a regional planning authority which would police development of northern Vancouver Island.

The authority, to be composed of representatives of industry, the general public and the government, would ultimately have the power to control land use, construction standards, zoning, community development and locations for industrial roads, schools and hospitals.

Mr. Campbell said first step toward implementing the plan will be to undertake a complete survey of north Island resources, land uses and existing communities.

He has already dispatched provincial regional planning director Don South to the area to determine how much of the island should be included in the planning region.

Aims of the scheme are to resolve the problems of multiple resources use, prevent the construction of sub-standard communities, create multi-purpose roads and eliminate the duplication of services.

He said the government wanted to act as a partner in planning of north Island development and not as a referee.

The planning authority would decide road locations on the basis of public as well as industrial needs and the government would jointly finance their construction with industry.

In this way, industrial roads could be built wide enough to accommodate the public at all times and to create essential transportation links.

Mr. Campbell explained that once a regional plan has been created for the area it would become law.

Land would be earmarked for whatever use it is best suited to.

He said multiple-use resource planning has failed in the U.S. because the government has always been forced into the position of referee when any dispute arose.

He thinks it can work on the north Island because it can be implemented there while the area is still sparsely settled and undeveloped.

If the scheme comes off, he said, it will be the first time B.C. has extended regional planning to a wholly unorganized area.

He has two southern boundaries for the area in mind and it will be Mr. Smith's job to recommend one or the other.

One would take in the entire Sayward Valley north of Campbell River and the other would be the Bonanza Lake - Nimpkish line, about 40 miles farther north.

DEATH RATES DOWN
Had death rates remained at late 19th-century levels, world population now would be 2,000,000,000 instead of 3,200,000,000.

PRACTICE OF DENTISTRY
Dr. J. K. Philip, B.D.S. (Lond.), L.D.S.R.C.P. will shortly commence practice in SUITE 7, STONE BLOCK, TRUNK ROAD, DUNCAN. For Appointment Phone 746-7811

Survey Being Taken

Saanich Shores Open— If You Can Get to Them

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

There still are potential recreation areas on the Saanich shoreline which the public is entitled to visit but can not because they are inaccessible or virtually so.

Saanich parks superintendent A. E. Richman has already reached this conclusion in the course of a survey he is conducting into public access to Saanich beaches and other shore areas.

He said last night that within a month he expects to make a final report to Saanich council—likely including recommendations for places suitable to the public to get to shore areas where they already are entitled to go by law.

At a meeting of Saanich municipal council's parks committee Tuesday night, Mr. Richman astonished several council members with a report that the municipality of Saanich owns 86 theoretical public access routes to Saanich fresh and salt-water shoreline.

Forty-four of these lead to the open sea, he said, and of these only nine are currently in use by the public.

OCEAN ACCESS
He said he has visited all the 44 access routes to the open ocean, from the Central Saanich border to the Oak Bay border, but has yet to investigate access routes to the Gorge and to fresh-water lakes.

Of the unused routes to the sea, he told the parks committee, some lead to points not suitable for recreation.

"But we can open many more,"

He said yesterday that the publicly-owned access routes range from 10-foot-wide path allowances to road allowances 30, 40 or 66 feet wide and include a few dedicated parks with considerably more waterfront frontage than that.

Once public access to a beach is gained, he explained, the public is generally free to range back and forth along the beach.

Except in the rare cases where a private interest has a "fore-shore lease," he said, all land between high-water mark and the property line is municipally owned and all beach from high-water out is owned by the federal government.

MAN HELPS
He said that in his investigations he discovered "one or two cases" where it seemed man had helped nature in blocking off access by adding some brush or "a piece of wire."

Pending completion of his report to council, Mr. Richman declined to identify specific sites where he thought public access could well be made easy.

He said he "wouldn't say a lot" of good beach now is going to waste, but there are "a few selected areas" with "pleasant little sandy coves."

MAJOR JOBS
The main jobs which would have to be tackled for easy access, he said, would be the clearing of brush and provision of adequate parking.

Necessary brush-clearing, he said, might well be done as winter works projects eligible for federal and provincial government grants.

Eichmann Bid To Woo U.S.

FRANKFURT (UPI) — A former Gestapo official Wednesday testified that Adolf Eichmann and other Nazi leaders tried to get the U.S. army to join them in fighting against the Russians during the dying days of Hitler's Third Reich.

Ex-Capt. Otto Hunsche, who served as legal adviser to Eichmann, was testifying at his own war crimes trial.

Earlier, he admitted that he signed the Nazi death warrant for millions of Jews.

Missionary To Speak

Rev. Bob Hammond of Pasadena, Calif., president of the Voice of China and Asia, will speak here Friday on the work of his missionary society in Hong Kong, Malaysia and India.

His talk begins in Apostolic Church, Blenheim and Queens, at 8 p.m.

Albernis Will Seek Big Services Grant

PORT ALBERNI — This city and Alberni are about to ask B.C. for a grant to cover big, outside-the-budget expenses for the reorganization of municipal services disrupted by the tidal waves.

Mayor Les Hammer, who made the disclosure, said the request will be "in the many thousands of dollars."

Charged

Ferdinand Walsö Demara, who gained title "the great impostor" after a long line of impersonations, was charged with grand theft (a borrowed car) in Madera, Calif., Wednesday. Demara vanished from a home for boys, where he was employed, April 30.

Mopeds After Business

LONDON (AP) — Two pretty women began operating an experimental two-wheel taxi service Wednesday for busy businessmen.

Their vehicles are moped-motorized bicycles with a seat behind the driver for one passenger.

"Too many businessmen are being trapped in London's crowded streets," said Jenny Redgrave, 27.

"We are convinced we can take them through traffic quicker and cheaper than four-wheeled taxis," said Beryl Swan, 28, the other driver.

"If they begin plying for hire we shall object most strenuously," said Dennis Olive, secretary of the Cab Owner-Drivers' Association.

Oxford Reds Face Purge

OXFORD (Reuters) — Britain's Communist party has ordered a full-scale purge of members at Oxford University who have pro-Chinese leanings.

It was disclosed here Wednesday by party members.

Edgelow:

Clean Up City First

Victoria has got to clean up its own smoke problem before it seeks outside co-operation, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said yesterday.

He was commenting on the statement by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell that the government will study Lower Mainland smoke problems after receiving a request from Vancouver.

The minister said the government had received no similar request from Victoria concerning the smoke problem.

BE HONEST

"We must be honest about this," said Ald. Edgelow. "Victoria, unlike some other local areas, is not subject to air pollution from outside sources. This is due to our prevailing winds."

He added: "The city has its own problem and we must handle and correct it before seeking outside co-operation. We don't want to pass the buck to anybody."

TESTS RELEASED

An indication of the progress achieved by anti-smoke measures in Victoria during recent months was disclosed yesterday with the release of fall-out test results.

The tests showed that during April an average figure of 9.2 tons of soot fell on each square mile of city territory.

Ald. Edgelow said he was "delighted" to learn that the Greater Victoria Association of Women Electors was pressing for provincial air pollution regulations.

Graduates Honored At College

Michael Baker, a member of the graduating Grade 12 class of St. Louis College, was presented with the Bishop's medal, an award for religion, by Bishop Remi De Roo at the school's graduation exercises last night.

He also won the Bausch and Lomb science award. Classmate Michael O'Neill was presented with the Brother John E. Ryan memorial scholarship and the Canadian history award and the O'Connell award went to Fred Gubbels.

Grade 11 student Andrew Winstanley won the Ronald F. McIssac bursary and a Bausch and Lomb award, as well as leading his class.

John Middleton, in second place, also won a Christian Doctrine award. The Christopher award went to Dennis Payne and Frederick Herfst won a science award.

In first place in Grade 10 was Kenneth Webb who won a French award; second was Terrence O'Connor, who took a Christian Doctrine award. The Christopher award went to Bruce Weicker.

First and second in other grades were: Grade 9, David Bartle, Raymond Cox; Grade 8, Gregory Grant, Henrik Sirety; Grade 7, Ryan Langhammer, Francis Costello; Grade 6, Robert Duncan, William Gordon; Grade 5, Dimes Craveiro; Grade 4, Brian Kelly, Bert Zethof.

Christian Doctrine award winners were Bernard Wille, Gregory Grant, Ryan Langhammer, William Gordon, Dimes Craveiro, James Griffin.

The valedictory address was given by Paul Paquin.

Make up your mind slowly.
Take a full 60 seconds.

A full minute may be longer than you ordinarily take over one sip of whisky.

Take that long with Time. The whisky in the hourglass bottle gives you a lot to think about.

The taste is light, warm, smooth. You'll find you have never known a rye like this.

Think about the taste of this gentle whisky. Think about the taste of the whisky you usually buy. Think about how they compare.

It takes a long time to change a man's mind about whiskies.

All we ask is one minute.

Fraser Forecast

Clean River, No Dam Would Double Catch

NANAIMO (CP) — Catches of pink and sockeye salmon from the Fraser River can be more than doubled by 1980 if water pollution is controlled and no dams are constructed on the river, say two of Canada's top fisheries scientists.

The Fraser River forecast is included in a report on the province's salmon prospects made by Dr. P. A. Larkin, director of the fisheries research board biological station here, and Dr. W. E. Richter, a consulting biologist at the station.

STILL RECOVERING
Their report says the sockeye production on the Fraser is still recovering from the Hell's Gate disaster of 1913, when railway construction caused slides which ruined the salmon run on the river.

Dam construction could almost eliminate the run, the report stated. The scientists said dams have already exterminated two sockeye runs — to Alouette and Coquitlam lakes — and another potential source was lost when the Ken-

Victorian Holland Pilgrim

A Victoria woman is one of 85 Canadian next-of-kin now in Holland on a visit to war graves at Gravenhage, near Nijmegen.

Mrs. Adrienne Barnes, 1183 Munro, is the guest of a Dutch family during her stay.

The pilgrimage was organized in Canada by the Royal Canadian Legion and is being sponsored by The Netherlands War Graves Committee.

The War Graves Committee raises funds through the sale of poppies in Holland and provides transportation and meals to the Canadian pilgrims.

After eight days in Holland the pilgrims will visit London for four days, returning to Montreal May 17.

City Dentist Wins Award

A dentist practicing in Victoria, has been awarded a $3,300 fellowship from the National Research Council in Ottawa.

Dr. N. E. Nichol, of 3523 Redwood, will leave Victoria early in July to study at the University of Manitoba in the research department of oral bio-chemistry for his Ph.D.

Dr. Nichol graduated from the University of Alberta in 1958.

Meadowlark's Nest Moves Horse Show, Stays Undisturbed

PARKVILLE — A meadowlark's nest held up the recent horse show and gymnastics staged by the Silver Spur and Riding Club on Woodlands Farm at French Creek.

The nest was discovered right in the middle of the competitors' ring. Officials and riders paused to decide how to protect nest and nestlings from being trampled.

NEST COVERED

As the mother bird circled anxiously overhead, it was decided to cover the nest with boards in such a way as to make the horses shy away from them, and to shift the ring over a bit.

The plan worked. At the luncheon break, two 17-year-old girls, Josephine Weicker of Parkville and Terry Matte of Victoria, undertook to feed the youngsters.

HOT-DOG DIET

They tried first with a hot dog and evaporated milk, which was accepted for a time. Then, to tempt flagging appetites, they switched to a diet of mashed hamburgers.

Judge David Bowman of Duncan remarked it was the first time he had ever heard of a horse show being held up on a bird's nest.

COUNCIL RULES

Riders from Parkville, Quilcum Beach, the Albernis, Duncan, Chemainus and Victoria took part in the show, believed to be the first run here under rules of the Vancouver Island Horsemen's Council.

WINNERS

In the junior events, high aggregate points English were won by Penny Thwaites, and Gordon Daley and Daryl Pallister tied for high aggregate Western.

In the senior section, Gill Dunlop scored high aggregate English and Bonnie Richmond high aggregate Western. Gill Dunlop also won a prize in the hunter hack class and Heather Rimmer took first prize in the western pleasure class.

Realism Added To Training

Thunderclashes, illuminating flares and blank ammunition will be used by the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada on training exercises at the following times and places:

Albert Head — Day and night firing May 11-15, 19-22, 25-29. Grenade range training May 13.

Heals Range — Rifle firing Monday.

Mary Hill — Firing May 11-19 except May 13, 16 and 17.

Unit Marks Two Dates

Two anniversaries are being celebrated this year by the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in Victoria — the regiment's 50th birthday and the 20th anniversary of the D-Day Landing.

A commemorative eight-page tabloid will be published early this month in honor of the double occasion.

Copies will be sent free to all ex-members. They can be ordered through the battalion orderly room, Bay Street armory. Name, address and regimental number are required.

Twins Born To Bison

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A bison has given birth to twins at Bellevue Park Zoo here in what two authorities described a "rare occurrence." The calves, each weighing between 65 and 70 pounds, were born Tuesday night.

Representatives of the police forces of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, the RCMP, the legal profession, the probation service — and even a couple of people he had sent to prison in the past, paid their last respects to Magistrate Albert Isaac Thomas at his funeral yesterday.

Sands Chapel was packed with people as the Rev. T. G. Griffiths conducted the service and many mourners had to stand in the reception foyer of the Quadra Street Chapel.

Outside, police had to direct traffic as the estimated 500 mourners arrived and left the chapel.

Nanaimo-born Mr. Thomas died Sunday night, only two days after being released from hospital where he was taken last month after a heart attack. He was 69.

Pioneer Farmer, H. P. Allberry Dies

A pioneer of Saanich and the Comox Valley, Harry P. Allberry died in Comox hospital last night.

He was a First World War veteran and winner of the Distinguished Service Medal. He came to Canada at the turn of the century and farmed on Sidney Island and on the Saanich Peninsula before moving to the Comox Valley.

MAN NURSERY

Until last year he operated the Comox Nursery at Grantham and previous to that had been in the chicken-raising and potato-farming business. He had been connected for many years with the provincial department of agriculture in the Comox Valley and was well known as a judge of agricultural exhibits at many of Vancouver Island's fall fairs.

After his retirement he moved to Victoria for a short time and moved to hospital at Comox about two months ago.

FUNERAL LATER

He was predeceased by his wife Winifred, second daughter of the late Canon J. W. Flint, a pioneer minister of Saanich, Salt Spring Island, Alberni and Comox.

Mr. Allberry was 78. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Wally (Helen) Booker at Grantham, and three grandchildren, Frederick, Brenda and Wayne.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Jubilee Fete

Patricias Urged To Write

The Colonel of the Regiment of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Maj.-Gen. C. B. Ware would like to hear from former members of the regiment.

The Patricias will be 50 years old on Aug. 10 and will hold Jubilee Year activities in Germany and Canada.

VISIT EDMONTON

Colonel-in-Chief, Lady Patricia Ramsay, formerly HRH Princess Patricia of Connaught, will visit Edmonton. The PPCLI Association will hold celebrations in Victoria, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Ottawa.

Former members are asked to write the secretary, PPCLI Jubilee Committee, Hamilton Gault Barracks, Edmonton.

Western Horsemen

Riders Face Busy Season

By BOB PETHICK

A heavy program of events awaits the fast-increasing membership of the four Western horse clubs here this summer.

The club's membership of close to 200 horsemen and women, many owning their own horses, is some indication of the keen interest shown in horsemanship events during the last few years.

LONGEST EVENT

Longest single event on the season's program is the four-day trail ride which welcomes all comers and is put on by the Garden City Horsemen's Club. Entries for the event close May 10 and club officials are hoping for a record turnout of Island and mainland riders.

For the past two years the riders have camped at a different location each night, moving across the Sooke and Highlands areas each day. This year a single base camp will be established and riders will travel different trails each day, returning to camp in the evening.

IN PARADE

The long ride will be staged May 22, 23, 24 and 25.

People who don't get to the many shows sponsored by clubs during the summer months will have an opportunity to see the colorfully dressed western riders during the huge Victoria Day celebrations parade on May 18. The horse section of the parade will be put on by the Colwood Trail Riders and the U-Tree Highlanders.

Another colorful show planned by the two clubs will be held at the Jaycee Fair May 15 and 16.

POINT SHOW

The Colwood Club will also stage a Vancouver Island Horsemen's Council Point Show at Luxton Fair grounds May 31. The event is open to nine clubs who are members of the council.

Founded two years ago, the idea of the horsemen's council was to increase competitive spirit among clubs and improve standards of junior and senior riders.

Events are staged by each member club in a point con-

TEAM AFFAIR

Events not already included on the Colwood Trail Riders' calendar are an annual charity show July 5 at Luxton fair ground; the annual Worm-aley Horsemanship Aug. 2 and the Luxton Fall Fair show, Aug. 21 and 22.

A team show is planned by the Garden City Horsemen's Club in August. As yet no date has been set.

On the U-Tree Highlanders' schedule is a council show July 12.

The Victoria Western Horsemen's Club with a smaller membership than the other three clubs will hold its big annual show in the Saanichton Fall Fair Grounds July 4.

The club also plans holding a show for the crippled children in the grounds at the Solarium but no date has yet been set.

"We put on a show and supply guitar music and the kids have a ball," a club spokesman said.

Meanwhile a four-man committee has been appointed to put together details of the annual three-day horsemanship show for the Saanichton Fall Fair which is open to all comers. The committee has already changed the day of the children's show to Saturday when the youngsters will be taking part in 4-H work as well as riding.

A second change planned is staging the western part of the show on Sunday. Through this change officials are hoping to get a larger entry from the mainland.

The committee consists of A. W. Mosher, chairman, and Roy Jewell, Fred Bell and Audrey Tomblott.

NO SPARE TIME

It seems like a pretty good bet that between up-Island shows, shows in the Victoria area, socials and dances members of the western horse clubs will not find time hanging heavy on their hands.

Keep Your Party Broke Advice to Politicians

There's no particular advantage in a political party accumulating large amounts of money—the money should be spent on propaganda and gaining new members, says Harry Fan-thorpe, lower Island president of the New Democratic Party.

That's why, he said, he hoped the party was always nearly broke.

"We've quite a deficit at the moment," said Mr. Fanthorpe, "and I don't think there's one constituency which hasn't got some debt after the last election."

"But I hope it stays that way. Political parties need money—but they should spend it, not hoard it."

Coroner's Aim

Label Sought For All Poisons

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coroner Glen McDonald says industry should be required to label poisonous chemicals.

He said Tuesday he would write federal Industry Minister Charles Drury and the Federal Food and Drug Administration seeking regulations enforcing such labelling.

INTO HOMES

Dangerous and deadly fluids used in industry today often aren't labelled as poisonous since they are not dangerous

OUTPUT INCREASES

Despite production cut-backs, Norway's 1963 pulpwood output was 835,223 tons, compared with 780,000 in the peak year of 1960.

when properly used by industry, he said.

But the chemicals often find their way into homes where they become potential killers.

Mr. McDonald made his comments as he concluded an investigation into the April 23 death of Robert Cach, 22 months.

FATAL BEAKER

The boy was visiting a vacant home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cash, when he slipped from a tiny beaker of fluid he found on a basement desk. He died in hospital 27 hours later.

Investigation showed the beaker contained thallium malonate, a deadly metallic salt in fluid form. It had been left by the house's previous tenant, a geologist.

Car Enthusiasts Testify in Trial

The Crown yesterday introduced testimony from a police expert and two amateur car enthusiasts in its attempt to convict four youths charged with breaking and entering.

The four—Eugene Hunt, 348 Michigan; James Erdman, 3835 Saul; William Gale, 2795 Murray; and James McGregor, 100 Cadillac—are charged with a break-in April 17 at Gibbons Food Market on the Patricia Bay Highway.

More than $100 worth of cigarettes, candy and pastries were taken from the store.

RCMP Cpl. Robert King yesterday told court fingerprints found on dropped merchandise at the scene and a sample taken later from Hunt "were made by the same finger."

Victoria Const. John Rickerby testified he had checked a car at Douglas and Hillside at 1:40 a.m. April 17, driven by McGregor. He said the car was a 1951 Ford.

Earlier in court, two young Saanich men said they had seen a speeding car—running without lights—in the vicinity of the store at about 1:15 a.m.

Lawrence Kent, a mechanic, said the outline of the car resembled a Ford or Meteor of 1949, 1950 or 1951 vintage.

His companion, Stuart Armour, said yesterday he was interested in cars and had remarked when seeing the car the night of the alleged offence, that the vehicle was a "flat-head Ford," which he said was a type of engine common to "early Fords."

The trial continues.

Magistrate William Ostler compared a young Sidney Husbard to a character from Dickens yesterday in passing sentence on two counts of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Jerry Fenwick, 18, pleaded guilty last week to paying two boys to steal two goldfish for him from a Johnson Street yard.

Magistrate Ostler called Fenwick a "latter-day minor Pagan," but said his actions in making restitution were impressive.

He placed Fenwick on $250 bond to keep the peace for six months.

Neil Munro McIntyre, HMCS Stettler, was fined $20 in city court yesterday after pleading guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

McIntyre, 19, was stopped April 25 in Port Alberni, and was found to have beer in his car.

Malcolm Tuohy, no fixed address, went to a city news stand March 28, and cashed a cheque for $40.

His account, at a city trust company, was $39.52 short of the sum of the cheque.

He will be sentenced May 13 for false pretences.

Paper Mail Reduced For Services

Want to send The Daily Colonist to a Canadian serviceman or woman abroad?

Under recently-announced new postal rates, it will cost only two cents for the first four ounces and one cent for each additional four ounces.

This rate now applies to all Canadian newspapers and periodicals sent by surface mail through a Canadian army post office, a naval post office or fleet mail office to Canadians serving abroad, their dependents or civilians attached to the military.

In announcing the rates, Postmaster-General Nicholson said he felt everything possible should be done to keep Canadians well informed, particularly those serving in areas beyond Canadian territory.

City Scholar Receives Professorship

Dr. George Satterfield, son of Major and Mrs. A. C. Satterfield, 1285 Reynolds Road, Victoria, has been promoted to a full professorship in biology at Carleton University, Ottawa, Ontario.

Dr. Satterfield graduated from Victoria High School and the University of British Columbia. He obtained his PhD in cytology at the University of Wisconsin.

Soviet Dancers Canada-Bound

NEW YORK — The Moiseyev Dance Company of Russia will make a 16-week tour of Canada and the United States next year. Sol Hurok announced Tuesday.

The troupe tentatively is set to open the tour in Toronto, March 14, 1965. Then it will travel to Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Victoria Woman Named To National Council

Mrs. P. E. A. Coombs, 1900 Waterloo, president of the Consumers Association of Canada, Victoria branch, has been selected as the only woman member of a national housing design council.

She will fly east several times a year for meetings, during which she will try to strengthen CAC head office and western branch liaison.

Be Kind to Animals Drive Wished Success

Victoria SPCA officials have received messages of encouragement from civic leaders for the association's 50th Be Kind To Animals Week, currently in progress.

"Please accept my best wishes on the occasion of the golden anniversary of Be Kind To Animals Week," said Mayor R. B. Wilson. "Your organization has a fine record in its field and I am quite sure will continue to carry on its good work in the future."

Allan Cox, reeve of Oak Bay, said: "On behalf of residents I would like to congratulate the SPCA on the celebration of its 50th anniversary of this week."

Saanich Council, said Reeve Stanley Murphy, was pleased to endorse the week and the SPCA's continued activities throughout the year.

Reeve Alfred C. Wurtele, of Esquimalt, said, "We wish all members of humane societies success in their activities."

The SPCA reports that since April 15, it has dealt with cases of rabbits, perching birds, sea birds, poultry, ponies, donkeys, turtles, underfed horses and six raccoons, including the everyday complaints of sick and injured dogs and cats.

Through this week, the SPCA hopes to focus the attention of the public on the need for support.

'Borders on Scandalous'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Mining Association of B.C. has asked for a full report on a

Assets Frozen

WASHINGTON — The treasury announced Tuesday it is freezing all assets of North Viet Nam in the United States.

claim by coroner J. T. McKelvie of Wells that miners recovering from injuries are sent back to keep compensation rates down.

"If there is any substance to the coroner's statements then it borders on the scandalous," Charles Mitchell, association secretary, said here Tuesday. Mr. Mitchell declined further comment until he had received a report from Cariboo Gold Quartz Company, at Wells. The coroner made his statements following an inquiry into the death of Gustave Theodore Kovlaski, 60, who blew himself up with a package of dynamite 10 days ago.

McKelvie said Kovlaski had been under a doctor's care at Wells hospital for six days after being injured Sept. 10 in the Cariboo Gold Quartz Mine. Kovlaski couldn't get compensation, and was sent back to work, he said.

A spokesman for the Workmen's Compensation Board here Tuesday declined to say whether the WCB is investigating the claims of the coroner.

Istanbul to Athens

HALIFAX (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy destroyer escort St. Laurent left Istanbul, Turkey, for Athens, Greece, yesterday after completing a six-day visit to the Turkish port.

The St. Laurent's call represented the first visit to Turkey by a Canadian navy vessel in 10 years. After a week's stay in Athens the St. Laurent heads for La Spezia, Italy.

The Men Enjoyed the Show

By Dorothy Wroblewski

Italian couture fashions shown at the Empress Hotel last evening brought forth a wide variety of reactions, mostly of admiration.

And don't let anyone ever tell you again that men aren't interested in high fashion. At the black tie affair last night, the men, and there were many of them, were as keenly interested as their partners. Perhaps not for exactly the same reason.

The show, sponsored by the Italian Trade Commission, The Hudson's Bay Company and the Women's Committee to the Victoria Symphony Society was held in the Crystal Ballroom and was followed by a wine and cheese party in the Georgian Lounge.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes, Mayor and Mrs. R. B. Wilson, Dr. G. Pagano, Italian Consul in Vancouver and Mrs. M. Castagna of Vancouver were among the 500 guests who saw the fabulous fashions.

After Mr. G. Dewias of the Italian Trade Commission office in Vancouver, had introduced Hudson's Bay store manager, Mr. J. H. McKay, the show was on the road and there literally wasn't a dull moment.

Eletta Polvani who came from Rome with another top ranking Italian model, Graziella Palumbo, opened the show wearing a velvet black wool sheath featuring the popular turtle neck sweater. Another striking sheath modelled by Eletta was a black cotton sheath, A-line style with gold and black applique. The same applique was on the wide, stitched brim hat with this outfit.

Another dress worn by the same model was also black (of material that looked like linen but could be anything these synthetic days) and featured a cross-over bodice, one side black and the other a deep gold.

Dark-haired Eletta looked absolutely terrific when she walked down the ramp from the flower-banked stage wearing a long evening gown of shocking pink splashed with white and pale pink flowers. The bodice was short tunic with peplum effect and was finished with tiny bows at the shoulders.

***

Olive and lime green were combined in the knit three-piece suit in which Graziella made her first appearance. The skirt of deep olive had squares of the lighter green, the blouse was light and the easy-fitting jacket was dark.

A startling, simple sheath of white had an enormous daisy applique on the centre of the front. This was also modelled by Graziella.

Polka dots made their debut in black and white in the sleeveless blouse and slim white skirt, also worn by Graziella.

***

Victorians also modelling the Italian fashions were Donna Walton, Florence Walther, Lorraine Travis, Doris Usher, Rosalie Conarroe, Michele Marinker, Lydia Mawson and Eleanor Mollett.

One of the outstanding suits was an apple seed brown fine-knit suit. The bone colored jacket was hand painted in pale green and brown.

A four-piece knit suit was reversible, one side brown and the other black. The topcoat to this ensemble was deeply slashed at the side seams.

A dreamy evening dress of green and rose-patterned chiffon had a floating full panel from the shoulder, which the model demonstrated could be used as a hood or a stole.

There were two beautiful, white, heavy-knit topcoats, straight in line and one priced at $200.

Then there was the three-piece beach suit. A vivid blue and green print was used for the bikini. The bra top and sleeveless coat was a small blue and green print, on white.

Black, orange and green were the colors in the long bulky knit coat that went over black velvet slims. The toque and heavy socks matched the coat of this suit.

A cocktail suit in bold red carmen mint-leaf design was a sheath dress cut very low at the back to a half cummerbund of the same material and straight little jacket.

A glamorous at-home jump suit was in black with double straps down the low-cut back. It was topped with a short jacket of silver lame mesh.

Even the commentator, Ida Bianco Clarkson, was right in the picture in her Italian model long gown. The bodice was black and the white skirt had red roses with black stems and leaves embroidered in rows from waist to hemline.

The glittering jewels worn with the fashions were also Italian crafted.

WHY SOME WOMEN LOOK OLD BEFORE THEIR TIME

It's dry skin that starts those early-aging signs: flaky cheeks, crow's feet, little lines. Yet it's hard to avoid dry skin, what with harsh weather, overheated rooms, low-fat diets, etc. That's why you need POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream now contains Allantoin—a substance that starts to repair dry skin in just 10 minutes! Allantoin gently disperses lifeless surface cells... sends Pond's rich moisturized lanolin deep into thirsty tissues. Almost overnight, lines and flakiness vanish! For a softer, smoother, younger complexion, get Pond's DRY SKIN CREAM. Discover for yourself how Pond's can re-moisturize even the driest skin. Buy it in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

A new soup made from two Campbell's Soups

Mix two Campbell's Soups together with regular amounts of water or milk—to create a new soup all your own.

For example, mix Campbell's Vegetable Soup with Campbell's Tomato Soup. Get a soup that's hearty, nourishing: rich in vegetables—16 of them. With the sweet, tangy flavour of the Campbell Tomato.

Or try mixing Campbell's Chicken

Noodle Soup and Campbell's Vegetable. A combination children love: tender chunks of chicken—both white and dark meat. Juicy, fat noodles. And, of course, 16 wholesome vegetables.

There are so many good Campbell's soupmates. Why not experiment? Choose two Campbell's Soups to create a new soup all your own.

A delicious way to surprise your family.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Can you predict when the fad will pass? I hope I live long enough. I am sick and tired of seeing our 17-year-old daughter in her black tights, boots, string hair, no lipstick and gobs of eye make-up. There are times when she looks so ghastly I hope no one will recognize her as mine.

I've talked until I am blue in the face, trying to persuade her to look like a normal human being instead of a derelict, but I might as well talk to the wall. She used to be quite sensible. Now she follows the pack like a sheep, and a blind one at that. Am I worrying needlessly? Do other mothers feel as I do? Please tell me what you think about this. —A CONCERNED MOTHER.

Dear Concerned: Chin up, mother—this too shall pass. In fact it may pass more quickly if you ignore it. I am happy to report that the cadaver look is out and the wholesome look is in. When your daughter catches up with the latest she'll abandon the black leotards and shock movie eye make-up and rejoin the human race.

Dear Ann Landers: Do you believe if a person breaks a mirror he is in for seven years of bad luck?

I haven't been in good health these past few months. The doctor says he can't find anything wrong with me, but I still feel tired and edgy all the time. This superstition thing has thrown me into a real tizzy.

After lunch yesterday, I was powdering my nose. The compact fell out of my hands and the mirror broke into pieces.

The woman next to me said, "Well, that's seven years of bad luck for sure. I've never seen it to fail." She then went on to recite the terrible things that have happened to people

Tea Raises $210 For Blind

Successful tea and sale of home cooking and needlework realized $210 for White Cane Club.

Mrs. H. Weldon, life member of the Women's Auxiliary, opened the affair which was held at the CNIB Institute on Blanshard Street.

Mrs. C. C. Wyatt, auxiliary president, was tea convener. Proceeds will go towards the ophthalmic research and treatment of the sightless in Africa.

Pioneer Girls

National Director Here

Miss Margaret Robinson, Canadian divisional director of Pioneer Girls arrives from Hamilton, Ont., today to meet with personnel of the movement in Victoria and the pastors of churches where groups have been formed. She will discuss the work and growth of Pioneer Girls in Canada in recent years.

Meetings will be held in the Alliance Church, Yates Street as follows: Pioneer Girls committee members, Pals and pastors, 2 to 3:30 p.m.; Pioneer Girl Guides 7 to 9 p.m. Refreshment time will give Miss Robinson a chance to become better acquainted and to discuss each phase of this work amongst girls.

Last Friday, Pioneer Girls groups of junior high school age from eight churches in the lower Vancouver Island area, gathered in Lake Hill Women's Institute hall gymnasium for a games tournament.

Prize for most points in novelty relays went to Bethel Baptist Church, Duncan.

COMING OF AGE With Sally Hamilton

"If you really want to do something for old people, would you perhaps send a note or card to Dad sometime when you have a few spare moments? He loves to get mail and sounds so forlorn when he tells me all the mail is for me."

My friend had just read my column in her paper. I responded promptly to her plea and got a note off to her Dad, an old favorite of mine. We say we love to receive letters but explain that we are poor correspondents. Father leaves the letter-writing to mother and she in turn is glad when one of the young folks takes over. But it's not that hard!

George and Marion L., both 84, now retired to Victoria's balmy climate, find in Her Majesty's mail service perhaps their greatest satisfaction.

They have three daughters and a son, all married, and many grandchildren, living in various parts of Canada. Add to this a host of friends gathered over the years. Mrs. L. spends a good part of her day writing to one and another. Her reward? It's a rare day that he postman fails to ring her bell.

She writes honey bits of news about what's coming up in the garden, the TV show she saw last night, the new baby next door.

My Aunt Sarah, 82, lives with her daughter and a houseful of grandchildren. She saves up little bits of news by jotting a reminder on the back of my last letter to her.

"Garry's such fun," she wrote me recently. "He's at the 'riddle' stage. I have a riddle book he knows nothing about and every once in a while I spring a new one on him. Then he tells me one. He thinks I'm just as interested in them as he is."

Long newsy letters are interesting but they do take time to write and so are often few and far between. There's nothing to stop us passing along an amusing incident and then signing off. Who wouldn't prefer frequent short messages to a long letter they might wait weeks, or months, to receive?

What about shut-in friends? An amusing cartoon alone could serve as the excuse for a mailing. Enclosed with a note saying "Thought this would give you a laugh!" or just "Hello!" and a signature.

You can buy a printed card to say almost anything for you (and that's better than nothing!) but if I were sick I'm sure I'd find it more fun to receive a real, live message saying: "The party was a success last night but it would have been twice as good with you there!"

A niece of ours is studying abroad. She has spells of homesickness when she begs for mail.

When we know some of the family is coming to visit us, we have an envelope all ready, stamped and addressed to Pat. Then we leave pen and notepaper beside it on the coffee table and we invite each one to write a short note. If anyone balks, we let him off easily by saying just write hello and sign his name. Our girl loves these round robins.

With writing materials at hand — pen, paper, envelopes, stamps — the job is half done. Stamps cost no more by buying them in advance. Having them handy sparks putting them to work.

People make your life. Let them make it more interesting by inviting them to write you often. How about starting now?

That Man in the Kitchen

Soy Sauce on Fish Makes Delicious Chinese Fare

By BASIL FITZGERALD

It's May and even the most enthusiastic cooks must have the urge to spend as much time out of doors as possible. This means that a minimum amount of time will be spent in the kitchen and quick recipes are the order of the day. Here is a good fish recipe which is easy to prepare and offers a change that is most welcome. The soy sauce gives a Chinese flavor.

FILLETS ORIENTALE

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. One lb. fish fillets (frozen or fresh); 1/2 cup lemon juice; 1 tbsp. soy sauce; 2 tbsp. chopped green onions; 1/2 tsp. ground ginger; 2 tbsp. brown sugar; 1/2 cup butter.

Place the fish in a shallow baking dish. Combine the lemon juice, soy sauce, ginger, brown sugar and chopped onions. Pour the mixture over the fish and dot with the 1/2 cup of butter.

Place in the oven and cook for 15-20 minutes, or until the fish will flake easily with a fork. Serve with boiled rice and a good tossed salad. As a matter of fact, the fish and the rice can be cooked while you prepare the salad.

Salads are always welcome and easy to prepare—here is one suggestion, however, if you do not want to mix a salad dressing, why not use just plain yogurt. It is particularly good with a salad that includes chicken and cheese or tongue. In other words, a chef's salad.

Soups are always appreciated and here is a recipe for Gazpacho that is easy to make and very nourishing.

GAZPACHO

Puree in a blender 1 clove of garlic, mashed, and one onion peeled and chopped. Add five ripe tomatoes peeled and chopped, 1 cup of beef stock, 3 tablespoons of olive oil, 2 tablespoons each of vinegar and chopped parsley and a dash of paprika. Cover the container.

Chill and serve with garniture of chopped cucumber, green. Bon appetit!

Jobless Total Plunges

Improved weather and preparations for the tourist season caused a sharp drop in April in the number of people seeking employment in Victoria, says the Victoria manager of the National Employment Service.

George Davis said 3,332 men had employment applications at the Victoria office at the end of April, a drop of 369 during the month. The number of women dropped to 2,088, down 188.

At the end of April a total 5,420 people were seeking jobs as against 5,987 at the end of March and 5,028 at the end of April, 1963.

ANNUAL INCREASE

Mr. Davis said that, when making comparison with the year-ago figure, the annual increase in the work force, estimated to be about 2 1/2 per cent a year or about 1,200 people, should be considered.

He said the office's figures show all persons maintaining an application for work, including 1,537 seeking part-time work or not fully available at the moment. This included 1,080 university students.

The total of those available for full-time work was 3,893—2,332 men and 1,551 women.

Jaycees Make Ready For Big Cattle Show

Between now and Monday, 80,000 square feet of land will be covered with three inches of sawdust on the southwest side of the Victoria Curling Rink, in readiness for the Jaycees' exhibition, which begins Monday.

Opening day will see the start of the biggest cattle show in the 18-year history of the exhibition, with 110 entries from 20 Lower Island farmers.

The cattle show will be in six classes, Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn in the beef section, and Ayrshire, Holstein and Jersey in the dairy section.

Jaycees yesterday reported there were also 210 rabbits and a large number of poultry entered in the rabbit and poultry section.

Judging will take place both Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday, 250 members from 14 4-H clubs on the Lower Island will display various skills and give demonstrations in the area between the poultry barn and the curling rink at 3:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Canada's NORAD Deputy Retiring This Summer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian governments changed, the cold war thawed or became more frigid, new weapons systems came and went, but RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon seemed to go on forever.

The 60-year-old Winnipeg native became the first deputy commander of North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) when the 200,000-man Canada-U.S. force was established in the late summer of 1957. He has occupied this position ever since through seven nerve-racking years.

RETIRING

Defence Minister Hellyer announced Wednesday that Air Marshal Slemon, who joined the RCAF in 1924 when it was formed, will retire from the air force this summer.

Mr. Hellyer said in a statement: "I would like to express my personal appreciation, and that of the government, to Air Marshal Slemon for the manner in which he has upheld the traditions of the RCAF and the good name of Canada during his four decades of service."

BROWN LEADERSHIP

"In his responsible position of deputy commander-in-chief of NORAD, Air Marshal Slemon has shown leadership, judgment and ability of the highest order and his dedication to service and country is an example for all Canadian service personnel."

Air Marshal Slemon probably never showed greater leadership and judgment than he did Oct. 5, 1960, when radar information from Thule, Greenland, made it appear as NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., that a flock of intercontinental missiles had been fired at North America.

He was in the NORAD "hot seat" at the time and while those around him, pale and shaken, clamored for him to flash an alert to the U.S. Strategic Air Command, he quietly and quickly checked out the information as false. The Thule radar, then fairly new, was picking up echoes of its own signals from the moon.

Slemon

Air Marshal C. R. (Larry) Dunlap, 56, chief of the air staff, will succeed Air Marshal Slemon at Colorado Springs.

Air Marshal Dunlap won't be replaced because the post of chief of the air staff will disappear this summer with integration of the armed forces' command structure. Air Marshal Dunlap is a native of Sydney Mines, N.S., and has 36 years' experience in the air force.

Slemon has not been afraid to tackle his own government publicly on issues where he felt he had to speak out.

He had his knuckles rapped in 1955 by the Liberal government for saying publicly that establishment of a supreme command for North American defence was inevitable. His view prevailed two years later.

Student Union Parley

Collegians to Map New Constitution

Delegates from universities in B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba will meet at the University of Victoria this weekend to discuss the proposed new Canadian Union of Students' constitution.

It is expected that the constitution will provide for two groups within the student union, one French-speaking and one English-speaking, each with equal voting rights.

The constitution will be up for ratification at the national meeting in Toronto this fall. One issue affecting students is that of federal aid to universities, which the CUS is seeking.

French-Canadian students consider such aid as an intervention in provincial matters, and this opposition could impede or perhaps halt legislation.

Registration School Lists Lagging

With two days to go for registration of Grade 1 students for September classes, only 1,400 out of an anticipated 2,400 have enrolled.

LAST DAYS

Today and Friday are the last days at which pre-schoolers can register at Greater Victoria District 61's 34 elementary schools.

Registration for kindergarten pupils are being taken at 15 of these schools and although there is accommodation for nearly 1,800 youngsters, only 827 had registered at 5 p.m. last night.

TIMES SET

Pupils can be registered at the elementary schools between 3 and 4 p.m., except where special times have been allocated.

Bid to Unite Families 'Possible'

WINKLER, Man. (CP) — Mayor Peter J. Kroeker said Wednesday Prime Minister Pearson has "indicated he possibly would write" Premier Khrushchev on behalf of new Canadians who want to bring close relatives to Canada from Russia.

But Mayor Kroeker said the prime minister made "no promise" when they discussed the matter in Ottawa.

OPPORTUNE TIME

He said it was felt now might be an opportune time for such an approach because of good trade relations between Canada and Russia and because of Russia's relationship with Communist China.

Last month the mayor went to Ottawa with Gerhard G. Sawatsky of Winkler who has been separated from his wife for 18 years and has never seen his teen-age daughter.

An Ottawa report said they were assured assistance by the external affairs department.

Huge Payoff Horse Scratched by Needle

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—The discovery of a hypodermic needle sticking into a horse's side in a record time double payoff at Roosevelt Raceway sparked a double investigation Wednesday by officials of the New York State Harness Racing Commission.

The horse is Historic Value, a pacer whose victory in the fifth race at Roosevelt April 28 completed a twin double that paid a record $132,232. He was scheduled to race again Tuesday night in the third race.

William Fish, a groom, noticed the needle sticking into the horse's hindquarters when he went to the barn late Tuesday afternoon to lead Historic Value to the paddock. He contacted the owner-trainer, Jack Scheffer, and they reported the discovery to presiding steward Edward French.

It appeared that it could have been a clumsy effort to dope the horse or that a would-be doper had been frightened away. Officials ordered Historic Value scratched but allowed him to go through a pre-race warmup and delayed the announcement so that betting patterns could be observed.

A search of the barn area failed to turn up a hypodermic syringe to go with the needle. Saliva and urine specimens of Historic Value were taken for tests that require about 72 hours.

William Bloomer, supervisory steward for the commission, said: "There didn't seem to be an unusual betting pattern. The horse was 4 to 1 in the morning line and 4 to 1 when the scratch was ordered."

The money bet on Historic Value was refunded. Storm Morka won the race, paying $17.10 for $2.

When Historic Value came back to the track Tuesday night in the third race, William Fish, a groom, noticed the needle sticking into the horse's hindquarters when he went to the barn late Tuesday afternoon to lead Historic Value to the paddock. He contacted the owner-trainer, Jack Scheffer, and they reported the discovery to presiding steward Edward French.

Some years ago I was bold enough to remark that if there was anything more hideously ungainly than a rhinoceros inspecting its toenails it is the average woman golfer bending over a putter.

I should have known better, of course. For some months thereafter I received a number of postal communications from the so-called fair sex that would have made the average poison-pen letter read like a love sonnet.

Hell, quite clearly, hash no fury like a middle-aged, well-heeled lady told that she's too old to wear slacks. Well, a few of them still do, but this time I have much more encouraging news in the up-to-date Faulkner Guide to Women Golfers.

Mainly, of course, I was getting at British women golfers. Most American, South African and Australian women always have taken their dress-sense into the locker-rooms. But I am now happy to report that British women are getting the right idea, too, and I'd be proud if my earlier castigations had something to do with it.

In Britain, at the moment, it's still a little chilly for the ladies to dazzle us with Bermuda shorts and Italian silk skirts. But, heaven be praised, the old tweedie school-marm set with their thick woollen stockings and gardening skirts have mostly been goaded into action.

Change-of-Pace Headgear

It has been most noticeable even in these early weeks of the season. Hats no longer look like tea-cosies recovered from the rubbish-bin as an afterthought. Colours are changing from nondescript mud to fresh pinks and plenty of white.

There are, naturally, a few diehard outragettes around but I'll tolerate even those so long as they don't wear slacks. Slacks, women golfers should be told once and for all, should be banned forever from women without the lines of a Dior model.

I'm happy to say that throughout my campaign to get better feminine fashions on their fairways I have had the unflinching support of at least one woman in Britain—the estimable Mrs. Marley Spearman, thrice British champion. I recall rightly, and always groomed as if for a fashion parade.

She has been a silent missionary but her mission will only be complete when all the world's golf clubs have a lady membership like that of the Tam-o-Shanter club in Chicago. There they all looked like Marley Spearman, a fact I shan't forget until quite a deal nearer my dying day.

No, the new wave is at least making progress in Britain and as an intemperate I intend to say something pleasant about women golfers in general.

Apart from women motorists, they are the most maligned race in the world. There are legends of stories about them taking wedges on putting greens and leaving vast footprints in bunkers, but my own experience is that their golf etiquette and manners far exceed those of my stubborn sex.

That's It for Now, Girls

I have heard them swear so brilliantly that an army drill-sergeant would have to withdraw discreetly to consult his dictionary. But this I accept.

On one occasion, also, I did see a little gameswoman-ship that would have left the average American male professional flabbergasted.

It was at Monte Carlo and the "victim" was already four up. Her opponent, who reminded me very much of Napoleon, was so furious that she repeatedly strode up to a few yards in front of the victim's ball, turned around and stuck her tongue out.

Goodness knows why they had ever agreed to play together. But the outcome was that the woman who had once been leading by four holes finally burst into tears, fled from the course and lost the match by default.

This sort of thing, I repeat, is rare.

Since my outburst of some years ago I have come to believe that women golfers enhance the game and, as I doubt whether I shall be writing about them again this summer, I would like to wish them all a successful season.

Car Races Set to Go

Vancouver Island Track Racing Association opens its 10th anniversary season Saturday night at Western Speedway with a full card.

For the most part, the jalopies—ordinary cars with no modifications whatever—will be handled by novice drivers, giving fans an advance look at some of the drivers who will be starting in the next few seasons. Drivers like Dave Cooper, Billy Foster, Al Smith and Ed Kostenuk all got their start in this classification.

Joining the jalopies on this first card will be a large group of sports cars, who will compete through the courtesy of Victoria Motor Sports Club.

On May 18, VITRA will be host club for a meeting of the Canadian-American Modified Racing Association, featuring many of the top drivers in the Pacific Northwest.

Garibaldi Group Doomed Again?

CALGARY (CP)—The Garibaldi, B.C., Olympic Association has been asked to outline by Sept. 1 reasons why it feels the Canadian Olympic Association should not support Banff as a site for the 1972 Winter Olympic Games.

Peter Loughhead, Alberta delegate to the COA, told the recent annual meeting of the Calgary Olympic Development Association the impression created by the request was that the COA will support another bid by Banff.

Ed Davis, COA president, said the International Olympic Committee could make a decision on the 1972 winter games site in Lausanne, Switzerland, in the fall of 1966.

CODA sponsored two Banff bids for winter games, in 1966 and again last year.

The association elected an expanded board of directors designed to emphasize business acumen and international contacts as well as technical knowledge.

It was the first general meeting of the association since Calgary-Banff's bid for the 1968 Winter Olympics was defeated in Innsbruck, Austria, three months ago.

Returned to the board were president Ed Davis, vice-president Hans Macle, Claude Brewster and Jack Hayes of Banff; and secretary G. A. A. Middleberg.

New members are A. G. Bailey, a Calgary oil man; G. Max Bell, publisher of the Calgary Alberta; lawyer Peter Loughhead of Calgary; Don Becker, assistant director of the Banff School of Fine Arts; and A. H. Marston, manager of a Banff hotel.

But despite this fancy figure, some fans have started calling it the Doormat Derby.

This year's Derby, scheduled for June 3, will be worth $210,000.

Watts said. "There have been accidents in the past, especially at the road near the mile post."

One path that used to cut across the track has disappeared altogether at a cost of $36,400. A tunnel has been built so that race fans can cross from one side of the course to the other a furlong from the finishing post.

The fans used to swarm across the track in thousands. It was difficult to keep the camouflage of grass cuttings intact.

The horses must not know. The mats will be dyed green and grass cuttings will be scattered on top.

"I think the mats will be safer than tanbark anyway," Watts said.

Now tanbark has become too expensive. So Major John Watts, Epson's clerk of the course, has ordered huge doormats.

Doormat Derby To Fool Horses

LONDON (AP)—They're laying the doormats for the Epson Derby—but don't tell the horses.

It's a dodge to cover the roads and paths that intersect the Epson Derby course, the horseshoe-shaped track where Britain's richest race is run.

For generations track officials have disguised the roads with a layer of tanbark covered with grass cuttings. The horses were supposed to think they were still galloping on the grass track, but they were not always fooled. Occasionally they shied or tried to jump it.

Now tanbark has become too expensive. So Major John Watts, Epson's clerk of the course, has ordered huge doormats.

Hey Pop, You're Famous!

By JIM BECKER
NEW YORK (AP) — "The highway goes right by here," said Stan Pearson.

"And every year we drive by on the way to New England for our vacation, and I always point to the ball field and tell the kids: 'See, that's where it all started, 25 years ago, and your old father was a part of it.'"

"And they don't believe a word of it."

But he was. And Tuesday he came back to play. Pearson, now 46 and living in Philadelphia, was the batter who drove home the winning run in the 10th inning of the first sports event ever put on U.S. television—a baseball game between Princeton and Columbia May 17, 1939. Princeton won it 2-1.

It was time for the Columbia-Princeton game again Tuesday, so as part of the 25th anniversary, Pearson came back to Baker Field on the tip of Manhattan and got into his Princeton uniform again.

Hector Dowd, now a New York lawyer, was the losing pitcher and he was back too, his Columbia uniform held up by a shoelace for a belt.

The television cameras came back, although they have gone on to bigger things since the day one camera sent the 1939 game to the 400 or so sets then in the Manhattan area.

In the re-enactment, Pearson fouled off a couple of Dowd's services, and they both retired.

"I threw him a curve," said Dowd. "Just like last time."

Geoff Dyson
"Improving"

In Nine Years We Can Topple England

OTTAWA (CP) — A former years away from putting together a track and field team that Canada is only nine

Geoffrey Dyson, now director of the Royal Canadian Legion's sports program, told a press conference that this country is hiding its athletic prowess by not taking part in international team events.

After more than a year of travelling across Canada holding coaching clinics, speaking to athletic banquets and generally striving to generate more interest in track and field, Dyson said he is convinced that Canada has the makings of a good, well-balanced international team.

He suggested a few warm-up matches against such countries as Jamaica and Australia — which he expected Canada to win—before moving into London for the match against the English.

Dyson said the talent was available but generally speaking there was a lack of top-notch coaching, facilities and competition.

Also missing, to a degree, was the desire in Canada to become a track power.

Dyson, 50, was chief national coach for the British Amateur Athletic Association from 1947 to 1962. During that time he fielded excellent international teams and inaugurated a fitness program that produced between 2,000 and 3,000 amateur and professional coaches.

Dyson said there are pockets of good coaching in Canada. He singled out Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia and said the situation was improving elsewhere. But he deplored the fact that it is possible to graduate from physical training programs without "a scintilla of knowledge about track and field."

B.C., Quebec Tenpin Picks

WINNIPEG (CP) — Handicappers rate British Columbia and Quebec as favorites in the first Canadian doubles and team tenpin bowling championships which start here today.

Fifty-one bowlers — representing B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Northern Ontario, Ontario and Quebec — will compete in the $2,450 tournament sponsored by the newly-formed Tenpin Bowling Proprietors' Association of Canada.

Some of the bowlers will represent their province in both the team and doubles event and each province has entered both competitions.

Two bowlers make up a doubles entry and six are entered in the team event, however only five bowlers comprise a team with one being used as a substitute who can be used to spell any teammate at any time during the contest.

Winners of both the team and doubles event will split the prize money and will also earn an expense-paid trip to compete in their respective events at the 1965 American Bowling Congress tournament in St. Paul, Minn.

B.C. and Quebec got the nod in the team section from bowling handicappers because of solid performances in provincial competition and experience.

A wide-open race is expected in the doubles.

Eskimos Sign Roger Nelson

EDMONTON (CP) — Tackle Roger Nelson has signed a one-year contract with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

He joined the Eskimos in 1954 from the University of Oklahoma and last year also took on the additional job of assistant coach. Nelson, 31, and now a Canadian citizen, was relieved of his coaching duties after head coach Eagle Keys was fired during the winter.

Bowling 'Phenom' Collects

OAKLAND, Calif. — Billy Hardwick, the 23-year-old tenpin sensation from San Mateo, Calif., won singles and all-events championships and placed second in team play and sixth in doubles to dominate the 1964 American Bowling Congress tournament.

Hardwick, professional bowling's man of the year and leading money winner last year, won the singles with a 730 series on games of 216, 238 and 256. Rolling doubles with Earl Johnson, Hardwick had a 664 series, and he added a 694 in the team event for a winning all-events total of 2,088.

The Palstaff team from St. Louis took the Classic team title with 6,417 for six games. Team members were Dick Hoover, Andy Marzich, Harry Smith, Jim St. John, Glenn Allison and Billy Wei, who replaced Marzich in two games.

Seattle's John Guenther placed 12th in singles with 674 and fourth in all events with 1,990.

Bob Strampe and Hal Jolley of Detroit won the doubles with 1,355, Strampe rolling 728 and Jolley 627.

O.C. Cricket

LONDON (Reuters) — Rain curtailed play in most of Wednesday's cricket matches in the United Kingdom. Close of play scores were:

At Oxford: Oxford University 177 (D. Woodley 75, D. Bennett 37) vs. Middlesex.

At Newcastle: Worcestershire 187 for 4 (T. Graveney 75 and 64) vs. Lancashire.

At Truro: Australians 158 for 8 vs. Somerset.

At Canterbury: Gloucestershire 214 for 9 (A. Brown 60 vs. Cambridge University).

At Birmingham: Warwickshire 147 for 6 (M. Smith 50 vs. Hampshire).

At Epsom: No play today in the match between Glamorgan and Derbyshire because of rain.

At Bristol: Surrey beat Cheshire by 62 runs in the one-day knockout cup competition Surrey 173 for 4 (48 overs), Cheshire 109 (83.3 overs).

At Nottingham: Nottinghamshire 211 for 5 (J. Biles 49, N. Hill 71) vs. Leicestershire.

At Hull: Essex 236 (G. Barber 51, R. Illingworth 3 for 31), Yorkshire 3 for 0.

"I believe he finds the week-after-week commercial series that doesn't whip up a lot of reaction rather deadening. He feels he would have more freedom of expression without the commercial considerations." Whatever the reasons, McLean is leaving, and Telescope loses an extremely able man. He says only that he will stay in broadcasting, and one can only hope he means Canadian broadcasting.

Sholto Watt Dies

A native of Victoria, Sholto Watt, 57, journalist, author and book critic, died in a nursing home in London, England, Tuesday night after a long illness.

He was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Watt. His father was medical officer at the William Head quarantine station from 1910 until his death in 1913.

His mother, the former Madge Robertson of Collingwood, Ont., toured the province in 1910 and organized the Women's Institute.

TWO SONS

On the death of her husband she moved to England with her two young sons and two years later organized Britain's first Women's Institute.

Mr. Watt spent a great part of his life in Europe, particularly in Britain where he attended Oxford University and the London School of Economics, later working for The Daily Express and Daily Telegraph.

LEFT AGAIN

He returned to Canada in 1939 but soon left again for Europe as a war correspondent.

He was one of the first correspondents to enter Rome and Paris and wrote a book on the ferrying of aircraft to Britain from North America entitled 'I'll Take the High Road.'

He also wrote a book in French, 'Le Long Chemin de Paris.' After the war he worked for four years as a feature writer and book critic for the weekly Montreal Standard.

TWO YEARS AGO

Watt, a bachelor, went to London more than two years ago but poor health prevented him from working steadily, although he continued doing book reviews for The Daily Telegraph until a few months ago.

First-donation cheque for $1,000 has come from Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston to Sisters of the Good Shepherd Animal Shelter, in drive for $75,000 for new quarters. Above, little goat, one of 80 animals now at shelter, looks down at Mother Cecelia Mary, head of staff of six.—(Jim Ryan)

Arms Suspect Quizzed in Holdup

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert Hudon, a 23-year-old electrician's helper whose arrest led to recovery of a cache of stolen arms, was taken to St. Jerome north of Montreal Wednesday for questioning in connection with a recent $5,000 bank holdup.

Hudon's arrest Tuesday climaxed a series of police raids in Montreal, St. Hyacinthe, Que., and Victoriaville, Que., which led to the arrest of 15 persons, all believed tied with the terrorist organization.

Columbia Row Pact Foe Apologizes

U.K. House Shadows Pension Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday he hopes the British Parliament won't be dissolved for an election before it passes a constitutional amendment being prepared by the federal and provincial governments.

He made the statement after Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) suggested an anticipated October election in Britain might prevent the constitutional amendment being passed and consequently delay the Canadian Parliament's approval of a portable pension plan including survivor benefits.

Mr. Pearson said the pension plan remains a top priority item of the government's program before Parliament takes a summer recess.

Steps Up

Former HMCS Naden padre Chaplain Charles MacLean, now deputy chaplain of the fleet (P) will be appointed deputy chaplain general of the armed forces and chaplain of the fleet in mid-August.

Two-Day Conference

Animal Lovers Expected From B.C., Three States

About 50 delegates from Oregon, Washington, California and B.C. are expected to attend the two-day American Humane Association Conference which begins today at 10 a.m. at the Empress Hotel.

A varied program of speakers will be heard today and Friday morning, to be followed by a tour of the Victoria branch SPCA Shelter, and the conference will close with an afternoon open forum.

HUMANE ASPECTS

Among the chief speakers will be Dr. James Hatter, director of the B.C. Fish and Game branch, who will talk about humane aspects in the management of wild life; Ronald Lambert, a member of the AHA field staff who will talk about shelter planning; Frank Conbear, of Victoria, inventor of an award-winning humane animal killer trap, and George Crosier of Los Angeles SPCA will discuss roadside zoos.

The approach to insecticide problems will be discussed by C. L. Neilson, and other speeches will be made by Dr. G. C. Carl, director of the provincial museum; Frank Andrews, field consultant of the AHA from Denver, and Gerald Dalmadge, director of field services of the Northern California SPCA.

By ARAM MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade unionist John Hayward of Vancouver apologized to the Commons external affairs committee Wednesday for a written assertion held to be in contempt of Parliament.

He had been threatened with the rarely invoked measure of being called to the bar of the House of Commons.

In the angriest session yet of the study of the Columbia River treaty with the United States, begun April 7, committee members tore into the written brief and Mr. Hayward's testimony as representative of the Columbia River for Canada Committee. It was formed in 1962 to buck the treaty.

James Byrne, parliamentary secretary to the labor minister and Liberal member for the British Columbia riding of Kootenay East, said the testimony probably will be duplicated Friday when the Communist party is scheduled to appear.

WARNED

Donald S. Macdonald, parliamentary secretary to the justice minister, first warned Mr. Hayward that he would move a motion if necessary to call him before the Commons itself.

Later he said another section of the brief was in contempt of Parliament and Mr. Hayward, in apologizing, said it had mistakenly been left in the brief.

If the brief's language was strong, it was only to indicate how strongly the Columbia River for Canada Committee's members felt about the proposed scheme with the U.S., Mr. Hayward said.

Chief to Urge NATO Changes

PARIS (UPI)—Dirk Stikker, retiring secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, will call for sweeping modernization and revamping of the alliance's structure in a report to the council next week, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Coffin Case

Gardner Story Studied

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Eric Stanley Gardner, famed American mystery writer, may be asked to testify before the royal commission probe investigating the events which led to the 1956 execution of Wilbert Coffin.

This was indicated Wednesday by Montreal Judge Roger Brossard, who heads the one-man inquiry.

STUDIES ARTICLE

Brossard said he would carefully study an article written by Gardner which appeared in the August, 1957, issue of Argosy magazine.

If the article gave "the slightest insinuation" that Gardner knew something which was not revealed at Coffin's 1954 trial or later, he would ask commission counsel Jules Dechenes to communicate with the author.

FOUR ARTICLES

The article titled The Coffin Case, a New Look, was one of at least four dealing with the Coffin case in the American man's magazine.

Gardner, a lawyer in his own right, founded a "court of last resort" in co-operation with the publisher of Argosy magazine to investigate cases where a miscarriage of justice was suspected, according to Montreal author Jacques Hebert in his book I Accuse the Assassins of Coffin.

Awaits Ruling

Banks

Stays

In Jail

MONTREAL (UPI) — Former Senators' International Union president Harold Chamberlain Banks must spend at least another two nights in jail before learning if he will be freed on bail pending appeal of his five-year prison sentence.

Appeal Court Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay said last night he was "not yet ready" to rule on Banks' application for bail—filed Tuesday after another judge ordered the former waterfront czar to penitentiary for five years for masterminding the beating of a rival union official.

"I am not ready and can't give a decision before Friday now," Tremblay said last night. "Tomorrow is Ascension Day and a holiday and the courts do not sit."

Canadian Horses In England

NEWARK, England (CP) — Six Canadian cutting horses from B.C. and Alberta arrived by air Tuesday had their first gallop over the English countryside Wednesday in preparation for their British debut at the agricultural show here Friday.

They will perform at 14 shows in the fine art of separating one animal from a herd of about 20 steers.

The Duke of Edinburgh, patron of the Canadian Cutting Horse Association who suggested the tour, will be presented with a colt, Max Charge, for training as a polo pony.

Soviets Give More Data On Oswald

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has given the U.S. additional documents concerning Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, officials said yesterday.

The presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, which has been investigating the assassination, recently requested additional information from the Russians on Oswald's stay in the Soviet Union from 1959 to 1962. Shortly after Kennedy was killed, the Russians turned over their official file on Oswald to the U.S.

The additional information, nature unknown, was delivered to State Secretary Rusk by Soviet ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

Tariff Tussle
Canada Takes Plunge

GENEVA (CP) — Canada has plunged into the Kennedy round of tariff-cutting with the world's major trading nations by agreeing to join them in a scheduled Sept. 10 secret display of initial offers to begin hard bargaining.

However, Canada's special position—an exporter of food and raw materials, but a heavy importer of manufactured goods—was singled out Wednesday by the 60-nation ministerial conference of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The GATT communiqué, a product of midnight manoeuvring between the Americans and Europeans, established as "a working hypothesis" an across-the-board cut of 50 per cent in Canada Holds Off

On Tariff Goal

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada hasn't agreed to a 50-per-cent, across-the-board tariff cut as a basis for its participation in trade negotiations at Geneva, Prime Minister Pearson indicated Wednesday.

He said in a Commons reply to H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) that such across-the-board cuts in negotiations on tariffs between Canada and the United States would be unfair to Canada.

Mr. Olson referred to Geneva reports that the U.S. and European Common Market countries had accepted the 50-per-cent cuts as a working basis for the international trade talks among members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Mr. Pearson said it had

Mr. Laing said he has never inquired whether such remarks are made from choice and that he wasn't prepared to argue about terms applied to him in public life.

But U.S. Asks Help
CUBA SEALED
---JOHNSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said Wednesday the U.S. policy of economic isolation of Cuba "is being effective" and the United States will insist and urge that its allies join in supporting the action against the Castro government.

Eggs, Nest
Commute

LONDON (Reuters)—Fondry worker William Kirk, 61, is one of Britain's most careful drivers these days.

Everywhere he goes, he takes a blackbird's nest and three eggs beneath the hood of his car.

The blackbird, one of Britain's best songsters, waits for Kirk of Chaddesden in the North Midlands, every day as he arrives at work.

Then it flies beneath the car to its nest alongside the radiator. The bird stays there till he leaves in the evening for the five-mile journey home.

Said Kirk: "I first noticed the nest and left it there . . . then the eggs appeared. Now, I drive as carefully as I can—never above 25 miles an hour."

Escapes Injury

Prince Philip, on way to naval inspection, narrowly missed serious accident when his official car had fire blow-out at high speed on Belfast's new thoroughway. Chauffeur managed to pull car to roadside despite traffic.

NO AGREEMENT

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said in a speech recently that no such agreement existed. Johnson was told at his press conference that some U.S. officials said there was Soviet agreement to the flights.

When the issue of economic boycott of Cuba was raised, Johnson was asked whether he thought denial of goods to the Castro regime could be effective unless U.S. allies cooperate.

BEING EFFECTIVE

The president replied that he regrets to see any allies fail to co-operate with the policy. The policy is being effective, he said.

The United States, Johnson said, is "going to continue a policy of economic isolation in the hope of preventing the spread of Castro communism to the rest of this hemisphere."

U-2 Flights
'Threat
To World'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev Wednesday publicly denounced American U2 reconnaissance flights over Cuba as a threat to world peace.

He delivered the warning at a Moscow rally while Premier Khrushchev sailed from Yalta, in the Crimea, for the United Arab Republic on his first goodwill tour to Africa.

EARLIER ATTACK

Brezhnev, speaking to an Algerian-Soviet friendship rally for visiting Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella, referred to an earlier attack on U.S. "spy flights" over Cuba.

"May I once again remind you," Brezhnev said, "of the warning which Premier Khrushchev made on the continuing threat and violation of airspace" of the U.S. U2 overflights.

Khrushchev told a May Day rally last week that the flights could plunge the world "into the abyss of another world war."

Halifax Suburb

Men, Planes Halt
Wild Bush Fire

HALIFAX (CP) — Desperate efforts by firemen and water-bombing aircraft succeeded Wednesday in stopping a wild bush fire that poured heavy smoke over suburban Purcell's Cove and threatened several houses.

The dense smoke, which cut visibility to a few feet, contributed to confused reports from the scene but early Wednesday evening firemen reported no houses had been damaged. It had earlier been reported that two houses were slightly scorched.

A trail of heavy brownish white smoke drifted across the southern tip of Halifax and toward the province's eastern shore. Nine fire departments battled the fire.

WORST IN SERIES

The Purcell's Cove fire was the worst in a series of outbreaks which roared through the province under clear skies—with no hint of rain.

Most woods in the province have been closed to travel. Chief Forester R. H. Burgess said the woods are "linder dry."

There has been no appreciable rainfall in western Nova Scotia for three weeks.

FLED FROM HOMES

Residents of at least four houses in the subdivision behind Purcell's Cove, across the Northwest Arm from here, fled their homes when the flames crept toward the subdivision. A fireman said the fire got to within 10 feet of one house.

A thick ridge of fill behind the new homes formed a firebreak for three weeks.

Nanaimo

Lying —Coroner

NANAIMO — "They're all lying," coroner Russell Inkster said last night of three witnesses who testified at an inquest into the February traffic death of Allen Michael Virostko, 19.

The Nanaimo youth died two days before his 20th birthday Feb. 23 when he was crushed beneath his sports car after it skidded and left Nanaimo Lakes Road about 10 miles south of here.

ALCOHOL A PART

The inquest jury, after deliberating 30 minutes, decided he died due to his misjudgment on approaching a corner. It added his "impairment by alcohol" contributed to his death.

Evidence was that another sports car, driven by Robert Bridges, 19, of Nanaimo, was at the scene but was not directly involved in the crash.

TWO GIRLS

Bridges and two 16-year-old girls, who had been the companions of Bridges and the dead youth, told the inquest there had not been a drag race and there had been little if any drinking.

Municipal Affairs Plan

Land Use, Building

'Police' May Guide Up-Island Growth

Campbell

By TERRY HAMMOND
Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said yesterday he hopes to set up a regional planning authority which would police development of northern Vancouver Island.

The authority, to be composed of representatives of industry, the general public and the government, would ultimately have the power to control land use, construction standards, zoning, community development and locations for industrial roads, schools and hospitals.

Mr. Campbell said first step toward implementing the plan will be to undertake a complete survey of north Island resources, land uses and existing communities.

He has already dispatched provincial regional planning director Don South to the area to determine how much of the Island should be included in the planning region.

Aims of the scheme are to resolve the problems of multiple resource use, prevent the construction of sub-standard communities, create multi-purpose roads and eliminate the duplication of services.

He said the government wanted to act as a partner in planning of north Island development and not as a referee.

The planning authority would decide road locations on the basis of public as well as industrial needs and the government would jointly finance their construction with industry.

In this way, industrial roads could be built wide enough to accommodate the public at all times and to create essential transportation links.

Mr. Campbell explained that once a regional plan has been created for the area it would become law.

Land would be earmarked for whatever use it is best suited to.

He said multiple-use resource planning has failed in the U.S. because the government has always been forced into the position of referee when any dispute arose.

He thinks it can work on the north Island because it can be implemented there while the area is still sparsely settled and undeveloped.

If the scheme comes off, he said, it will be the first time B.C. has extended regional planning to a wholly unorganized area.

He has two southern boundaries for the area in mind and it will be Mr. Smith's job to recommend one or the other.

One would take in the entire Sayward Valley north of Campbell River and the other would be the Bonanza Lake - Nimpkish line, about 40 miles farther north.

Timber Dispute 'Private'

NORTH COWICHAN—A timber trespass problem involving a North Cowichan councillor before his election last December came before council yesterday—and the decision was that it's a private matter.

The dispute between Coun. George Whittaker and Thomas Lines, a Duncan lawyer who has a dairy farm at Genoa Bay, dates back to last year when Mr. Whittaker logged timber on a private tract.

PAID FOR TREES

Coun. Whittaker told council yesterday he paid the municipality $15 for nine trees he cut in error.

Mr. Lines said he spent $114 survey costs to determine the exact borderline, including the area of trespass.

The municipal body named Couns. Gerry Smith and John Efford to investigate a manning problem at the Chemainus police station.

SWITCH URGED

The Chemainus-Crofton and district Chamber of Commerce has urged installation of a switch to connect callers to Duncan headquarters when the Chemainus station is not manned.

The move would cost $600. If the councillors find the need is not urgent, the switch will be put in the 1965 budget.

Council also:
● Voted to buy for gravel purposes a piece of land in Somers from J. H. Saunders for $12,000.

● Received tenders ranging from $20,600 to $21,400 for a new municipal garage and from $3,000 to $5,000 for a compressor.

● Received petitions asking immediate paving of Westview Road and action to prevent annual floods in the Chemainus district.

● Sent to the public works committee a request by Mt. Brenton Golf Club for an oil coat for its parking lot. The club would pay for the job.

● Decided to pay L. A. Goldsmith $25 for a small piece of land to ease a curve at Victoria and Douglas in Chemainus.

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Plans to launch the Vancouver Island-Prince Rupert ferry service next summer ran on the rocks yesterday and were in danger of sinking.

Shipbuilders told a crestfallen Premier Bennett they couldn't possibly meet the government's May 7, 1965, deadline for delivery of the Haida Route's first vessel.

Victoria Machinery Depot was low bidder for the ship at $6,019,000. Only other tender came from Yarrows Ltd. and was $6,501,843.

Vancouver's Burrard Drydock wrote that a lingering labor dispute and expectations of a new federal government weather-ship contract had forced it to forego bidding.

Both bidders had omitted completion dates—a factor which gives the B.C. Ferry Authority an excuse to call tenders over again.

Possibility that a new call would be made loomed when the premier told assembled shipyard executives and newsmen that he didn't think the authority would accept winter delivery.

Ferry officials would be reluctant to launch the new service during the slack winter months and wouldn't want to mothball the vessel for several months pending a 1966 inaugural run.

Bennett Disappointed

If tenders were recalled allowing a longer construction time, the bids might be lower.

Premier Bennett said he was disappointed and asked the shipyard spokesmen if there wasn't some hope for early-summer delivery.

Yarrows general manager John Wallace said his firm couldn't promise delivery before October, 1965.

VMD president Harold Hubbard thought there was a chance for July delivery but he ruled out a July 1 deadline.

He didn't think there was any shipyard which could offer earlier delivery.

Ferry Only Part

The premier announced the scheme last year. The ferry service is only part of it.

Related projects are completion of the north-Island highway to Port Hardy, the Yellowhead highway and the Northern Trans-Provincial highway.

The road and ferry network will create a circle route linking Victoria, Prince Rupert, Prince George, Kamloops and Vancouver.

travelers between Washington and Alaska.

Plans call for a 325-foot deep-sea vessel capable of carrying 1,000 passengers and, initially, 130 cars. Car accommodation could later be expanded to 150.

It would cruise at 18 knots and make the journey to Prince Rupert in about 22 hours.

Initially the vessel is to depart from Kelsey Bay, but the terminal would be moved to Port Hardy with completion of the highway to the northern tip of the Island.

Farmers Told:

You Can't Kill Tansy Ragwort

NANAIMO—N. F. Putman, head of the field crop division of the provincial agriculture department, told representatives of the Nanaimo District Farmers' Institute yesterday they will never be able to wipe out the poisonous weed tansy ragwort.

He toured Joseph Garner's farm in the Extension district and inspected areas where the weed growth is most prevalent.

Another matter: "You'll get control, but you won't eradicate it," he said. "I think we can control it as farmers have done and are doing in the United States."

England and New Zealand, but getting rid of it... that is another matter."

Mr. Putman said the weed, which causes animals to die of a liver infection, is "no problem" on well-cultivated fertile land or in forests, but becomes dangerous when it grows on roadsides and other uncultivated land.

It is not a dry-land weed, he said, but thrives in areas where the annual rainfall averages around 40 inches.

"Any normal self-respecting cow won't eat this. They don't like the smell."

The weed was mentioned as long ago as 1906 in a booklet published by the federal department of agriculture. There is no need for the provincial department of agriculture to do any research on its effects, said Mr. Putman, as this work has already been accomplished by experts in other countries where it posed a threat.

City Scouts Win Badges

Larry Ross and Dave Dommett of the First Garry Oak Scout Group have been awarded Scout proficiency badges.

Larry Ross received the First Class Scout Badge and Dave Dommett the Green and Yellow All-Round Cord.

He estimated materials required for application of the weed killer would cost about $2 an acre. Mr. Putman said the growth of Canadian thistle is far more dangerous because it not only affects every agricultural area in B.C. but is also

Port Alberni

Schools Spur Taxes

PORT ALBERNI—A special city council meeting last night set a 1964 tax rate of 48.77 mills for Port Alberni, up 2.06 mills, and was told the increase is almost entirely due to school costs.

The entire budget is $2,723,325 and finance chairman Al Jack Perry said school costs of $1,186,278 show an increase of 23 per cent from last year and 48 per cent in two years.

ALARMING
He said a dollar increase of $384,922 for education in two years is "rather alarming."

The school mill rate rose to 21.49 from 1943 last year, the rate for general purposes went up to 22.08 from 21.55 and the debt rate fell to 5.2 from 5.7.

Social welfare costs of $312,500 are the second largest items in the budget. Public works plans propose continuance of present five-year schemes for roads and other items.

DUNCAN — Bleating sheep, and busy clippers at the Cowichan Exhibition grounds dominated the scene yesterday at the first one-day sheep shearing course ever held here.

Showing six sheep breeders from the Cowichan Valley how to cut the fleece in one place, and what to watch for when preparing it for shipping, was the job of Robert Shopland, secretary-manager of Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Ltd. of Edmonton.

Mr. Shopland said the Duncan course is the first of four events in B.C. this week.

An island field day for sheep breeders, sponsored by the B.C. agriculture department and the B.C. Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association will be held today at the Nanaimo Exhibition grounds.

Abbotsford will be the centre of a one-day sheep shearing school Friday and a sheep field day Saturday.

Mr. Shopland said handling of the sheep is 50 per cent of the shearing, which can be done in two minutes by an experienced man.

One of the shearing champions from New Zealand, Godfrey Bowin, who this year will again give demonstrations at the PNE, can do the job in 56 seconds — and blindfolded in 60 seconds—which totals 500 to 600 sheep each working day.

Mr. Shopland said an average shearer will do between 125 and 150 sheep a day. Demonstrating handling of the fleece after shearing, he told farmers that by feeling the wool an expert can tell how the sheep had been cared for—and proper care will improve the wool's value, he insisted.

Depending on the size and breed the fleece may range from nine to 14 pounds.

Spectator Eric Jones, who keeps some sheep at Quamichan Lake, said he can remember in 1915 when shearers used either hand clippers, or clippers driven by a machine which had to be turned by hand.

Also attending the school was district agriculturalist Ken Jamieson of Duncan, assistant livestock commissioner R. L. Wilkinson of Victoria, prominent local sheep breeder R. H. M. Shaw and members of the Cowichan Indian band, including Quamichan carver and farmer Simon Charlie, who plans to raise sheep.

Mr. Charlie said this would be of great help to the knitters of world-famed Cowichan Indian sweaters.

Today's sheep field day at Nanaimo will start at 10:30 a.m. with market lamb judging class.

At 11 a.m. a shearing and wool handling demonstration will be held, followed by a lecture on marketing by Mr. Wilkinson.

At 1:45, Mr. Shopland will talk on management tips and a carcass evaluation by J. Keane at 3 p.m. will conclude the program.

Doc Nicoll Gets New Chance

VANCOUVER (CP) — R. E. ground he was in contempt of court following a radio broadcast Jan. 7.

The board's dismissal was made after Mr. Nicoll was quoted as saying assessors and the court of revision judges "can bamboozle the average citizen with gobbledygook and often downright lies."

Nicoll denied the words.

He appealed to the Supreme Court on the ground the court of revision was without jurisdiction to hold him in contempt or punish him, or decline to hear his appeal.

Two weeks ago Mr. Justice Nemetz instructed counsel to attempt to effect a compromise. When these efforts failed, he handed down his decision.

Alberni Will Seek Big Services Grant

PORT ALBERNI—This city and Alberni are about to ask B.C. for a grant to cover big, outside-the-budget expenses for the restoration of municipal services disrupted by the tidal waves.

Mayor Les Hammer, who made the disclosure, said the request will be "in the many thousands of dollars."

Alberni MLA:

Bennett's to Blame

PORT ALBERNI—Premier Bennett is trying to argue his way out of a predicament of his own making in the Alberni flood-controversy, MLA John Squire of Alberni charged Wednesday.

The NDP member said Mr.

Bennett is blaming the delay in relief payments on Ottawa when, in truth, B.C. has only two decisions to make:

● Advise the flood disaster committee of the damage assessments.

● Announce the percentage of damage B.C. is prepared to accept as its responsibility.

Mr. Squire went on:

"The committee is full and properly constituted by reason of an order-in-council passed in Victoria. With the necessary information of damage figures at its disposal together with provincial government monies, it could start issuing partial payment immediately to relieve homeowners and business houses."

RECKING STATUTES

"Premier Bennett has the authority by right of existing statutes to make restitution and I am certain that three or four million dollars divided among Ottawa, Victoria and voluntary contributions will not affect the provincial budget."

In Vancouver, B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault said disaster aid has always been sought in the form suggested by Ottawa, and "the premier knows it."

He said the premier was just renewing his old feud with former B.C. Liberal chief Arthur Laing, now a federal minister.

Able Cadet R. Hamilton received the women's auxiliary award for the best able cadet.

Leading Cadet K. Black accepted the Stockton award while Petty Officers Michael Inkster and L. Wenzelki share the Reid Trophy.

Art Group Praised By Graham

DUNCAN—Director Collin Graham of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery found four reasons to congratulate the Crofton Arts Centre on the opening of its two-day spring show yesterday.

He commended the group for its honest approach to art, increasing liveliness, interesting experimentation and ability to hold together for nine years.

Ninety paintings are being shown by 23 artists and additional exhibits include wood carvings by H. Swales and china painting and pottery by Mrs. S. Witham, Mrs. E. Harris and Mrs. B. Valleau. The show will be open today from 2 to 10 p.m. in the Legion Hall on Trunk Road.

July Events Totted Up

PORT ALBERNI—Loggers' sports July 1, cruises to Bamfield, tours of industrial plants and the Sprout Lake regatta are some of the attractions listed by the Alberni as Vancouver Island centres plan to entertain Prairie visitors in July.

A letter to Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce from the Nanaimo Tourist Bureau outlined the plan to promote a full month of activities. They will revolve around the long-established Prairie People's Picnic at Parksville.

Mrs. Mary Hersey of Robson Street, Vancouver, is staying in her cottage at Drumore for a week or two.

Around the Island

Water Work Done

NANAIMO—A $200,000 project to double the capacity of the district reservoir, begun last November, has been completed, Greater Nanaimo water district officials said Wednesday.

Before use, the reservoir will be flushed out for about two weeks with chlorinated water which will drain into the Chase River. The work will be finished in time for heavier water consumption in the summer.

DUNCAN—A blood donor clinic will be held today and Friday in the United Church hall here from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The clinic is sponsored by the Cowichan branch of the Red Cross.

Make up your mind slowly. Take a full 60 seconds.

A full minute may be longer than you ordinarily take over one sip of whisky. Take that long with Time. The whisky in the hourglass bottle gives you a lot to think about.

The taste is light, warm, smooth. You'll find you have never known a rye like this.

Think about the taste of this gentle whisky. Think about the taste of the whisky you usually buy. Think about how they compare.

It takes a long time to change a man's mind about whiskies. All we ask is one minute.

Canada Takes Tariffs Plunge

GENEVA (CP)—Canada has plunged into the Kennedy round of tariff-cutting with the world's major trading nations by agreeing to join them in a scheduled Sept. 10 secret display of initial offers to begin hard bargaining.

However, Canada's special position—an exporter of food and raw materials, but a heavy importer of manufactured goods—was singled out Wednesday by the 40-nation ministerial conference of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

NDP Broke in B.C. Strachan Reports

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Strachan said Wednesday night the New Democratic Party will have to close down its British Columbia organization unless it obtains at least $15,000.

The provincial NDP leader said this amount is owing a Vancouver printer and other amounts are outstanding.

"We're in a bad financial fix," he said in an interview.

"In the past three years we've had to fight two federal elections, a provincial election and two by-elections.

"We depend on our membership to pay the cost of these campaigns. Our books are open to inspection to anyone. We don't get donations from companies as other parties do."

Ernie Hall, the party's provincial secretary, said the NDP in B.C. has a membership of 10,000, each of whom has paid his annual $5 dues.

"But we now need a contribution of at least $2 a member to see us through," he said.

Students Haul Garbage Get 'Scabbery' Blast

VANCOUVER (CP)—An angry union official said Wednesday "Bachelor of Scabbery" degrees should be awarded students making money hauling garbage.

Jack Phillips, secretary of the striking Civic Employees Union (outside workers) which include garbage collectors, said the students are strike breaking and he has protested to the University of British Columbia.

In a letter to Dr. John Macdonald, UBC president, he said he would welcome assurance that the university does not encourage "scabbing" by its students.

He said: "Our union provides a bursary to the university and several other unions do also. We will ask the university if it is using our money to train scabs."

The 1,500 union members went on strike April 27 to back wage increase demands of up to 19 cents an hour over the present base rate of $1.90.

The city has offered seven cents.

Wednesday, Dr. Neil Perry, government-appointed indus-

No B.C. Bid For Aid Laing Insists

OTTAWA (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Laing maintained Wednesday that Premier Bennett of British Columbia hasn't submitted a request for federal aid for the flood-damaged Alberta area.

He was replying to Walter Dinsdale who also asked Laing about reports that Mr. Bennett described Mr. Laing's Tuesday statement as "stupid."

Mr. Laing said he has never inquired whether such remarks are made from choice

argue about terms applied to

Cuba Sealed Off Johnson Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said Wednesday the U.S. policy of economic isolation of Cuba "is being effective" and the United States will insist and urge that its allies join in supporting the action against the Castro government.

On another question relating to Cuba, Johnson said he was "not familiar" with any agreement with Russia covering Russian approval of U.S. reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

NO AGREEMENT

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said in a speech recently that no such agreement existed.

Johnson was told at his press conference that some U.S. officials said there was Soviet agreement to the flights.

When the issue of economic boycott of Cuba was raised,

Johnson was asked whether he thought denial of goods to the Castro regime could be effective unless U.S. allies co-operate.

BEING EFFECTIVE

The president replied that he regrets to see any allies fail to co-operate with the policy. The policy is being effective, he said.

The United States, Johnson said, is "going to continue the policy of economic isolation in

spread of Castro communism to

Missile Watch Must Go On

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence Secretary McNamara says the United States will continue to fly aerial reconnaissance missions over Cuba whether or not the Russians turn over to Cuba the anti-aircraft missile batteries they installed.

Any such transfer of control "will not affect our need for or our plans for aerial reconnaissance," McNamara told the Advertising Council Wednesday.

He stressed that the United States, under both President Kennedy and Johnson, stated clearly "that we must have satisfactory inspection of Cuba to be sure that offensive weapons such as ballistic missiles are not introduced in that country."

U-2 Flights 'Threat To World'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev Wednesday publicly denounced American U2 reconnaissance flights over Cuba as a threat to world peace.

He delivered the warning at a Moscow rally while Premier Khrushchev sailed from Yalta, in the Crimea, for the United Arab Republic on his first goodwill tour to Africa.

Brezhnev, speaking to an Algerian-Soviet friendship rally for visiting Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella, referred to an earlier attack on U.S. "spy flights" over Cuba.

Nanaimo

Witnesses Lying —Coroner

NANAIMO—"They're all lying," coroner Russell Inkster said last night of three witnesses who testified at an inquest into the February traffic death of Allan Michael Virostko, 19.

The Nanaimo youth died two days before his 20th birthday Feb. 23 when he was crushed beneath his sports car after it skidded and left Nanaimo Lakes Road about 10 miles south of here.

ALCOHOL A FACT

The inquest jury, after deliberating 30 minutes, decided he died due to his misjudgment on approaching a corner. It added his "impairment by alcohol" contributed to his death.

Evidence was that another sports car, driven by Robert Bridges, 19, of Nanaimo, was at the scene but was not directly involved in the crash.

TWO GIRLS

Bridges and two 16-year-old girls, who had been the companions of Bridges and the dead youth, told the inquest there had not been a drag race and there had been little if any drinking.

Charter by Fall?

B.C. Bank Here, Too

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

A Victoria branch of the proposed Bank of British Columbia will open simultaneously with the Vancouver head office and main branch in Vancouver, Premier Bennett told the Colonist yesterday.

His statement came as he announced to reporters that the private bill seeking a federal charter for the government-sponsored bank got first reading in the senate yesterday and is scheduled for second reading today.

He said he hoped the charter would be granted by fall.

Bank of B.C. branches in Vancouver and Victoria would open initially in rented quarters, the premier said.

Then he suddenly recalled that he holds no official position with the bank.

WHAT HE HOPES:

"I'm not a director of the bank you know. That's just what I hope the directors would do," he chuckled.

Did he hope the directors would see fit to erect a new building for the Victoria branch soon after the bank opens?

"Yes," he laughed, "I hope the directors would do that."

OTHER BRANCHES

He also hoped the directors would open a number of other branches around the province at the same time.

"This won't be like other banks that have to open a branch and not have one customer," the premier said.

"This bank will have more shareholders than any other in Canada and they will want to be customers."
